Legislative Deadlock Grows As GOP Leaders and Governor Fail to Ask 'Peace Conference'

Chamberlain Says British Treatment Now 'Intolerable'

Foreign Secretary Halifax Asks for Conference With Japan's Ambassador Today

U. S. Protests

American Inconveniences Must Be Stopped, Consul Warns

(By The Associated Press)

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Japanese treatment of British nationals at Tientsin was "intolerable" and disclosed that the Japanese ambassador had been called to the foreign office for consultation today on the matter.

His statement followed charges by the British consulate-general in Tientsin that eight Britons had been forced to submit to indignities, including stripping, at barricades to the blockaded foreign concessions.

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, said Chamberlain, "has requested the Japanese ambassador to see him in connection with these incidents today .... I have no doubt the foreign secretary will make it very clear to the Japanese ambassador .... what we think of those intolerable insults."

The house cheered.

U. S. Representations

Meanwhile at Tientsin Japanese gendarmes, disregarding British official complaints, continued the thorough examination of Britons at the concession barricades, which few tried to pass. United States Consul Frederick W. Hinke made representations, short of a formal protest, against inconveniences suffered by Americans at the barricades.

At Swatow, South China port newly-captured by the Japanese, eight American and eight British sailors patrolled entrances to American Baptist and English Presbyterians missions. The bluejackets landed just one day after a Japanese warning to foreigners to evacuate the Swatow area. Both British and American officials declined to heed the warning.

In Tokyo Japanese foreign office leaders were reported conferring with the North China military chieftians on exactly what demands to make of Great Britain in connection with the Tientsin affair. Both British and Japanese agreed there was as yet no basis for negotiations.

New Border Incident

Tokyo reported a new Manchoukuo border incident involving Soviet Russian-dominated outer Mongolia, a heavy air clash between Japanese and Mongolian forces in the Lake Bor area.

France was engaged in signing a near eastern mutual assistance agreement with Turkey similar to that already between Turkey and Great Britain. In Ankara, Turkish capital, a complementary document was being signed turning over to Turkey the Republic of Hatay, the former Alexandretta Sanjak, northern Syrian province.

The British government advised the House of Commons that it would sign today an agreement with the United States government bartering American cotton for wartime use for British rubber. About 600,000 bales of United States cotton were understood to be involved. The cotton is not to be put on the market for at least five years.

The new priests were ordained by the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic delegate to the United States. They included: Edwin J. Brooks, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Philip H. O'Neill, Yonkers, N. Y.

King and Queen Arrive in London

State Dinner for Monarchs Given in Ancient Guildhall

London, June 30 (AP).—King George VI and Queen Elizabeth today were welcomed home officially from their historic 15,000-mile trip to the New World at a state luncheon given by the Lord Mayor of London in the ancient Guildhall.

The Lord Mayor, Sir Frank Bowater, a wealthy paper manufacturer, invited 700 guests to lunch with the King and Queen in the large hall which is the center of London's civic life.

A morning sprinkle stopped in time to allow the royal party to drive from Buckingham Palace in four landaus.

Prime Minister Chamberlain and his cabinet ministers and their wives, United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, and the high commissioners of Canada and the other dominions were among the guests.

City Uses Greater Supply of Water

Water Department Says Six Million Gallons Drawn Daily This Spring

With the long, dry spell this spring there has been an increased consumption of water in the city due to the sprinkling of gardens and lawns, which are in a parched condition.

At the water department it was said today that between five and six million gallons of water are being consumed daily here.

Kingston draws her water supply from Cooper's Lake, and the lake at the present time is down three feet from the full level.

Some years ago the water department increased the capacity of Cooper's Lake by erection of a larger dam, and for that reason there has been no shortage of water in the city.

Confesses Guilt, Police Say

Burley, Idaho, June 23 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff George Bray of Cassia county said today Charles W. Quigley, 30, had admitted he was responsible for the death of his mother 14 years ago, in Mount Holly, N. J. Although Quigley was arrested Wednesday after confessing to a state policeman, his statement was not divulged until late last night when New Jersey officers verified the 1925 death by fire in which Quigley admitted guilt. Mount Holly officers requested Quigley be held.

Daughter to Tunneys

New York, June 23 (AP).—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, today became the father of an eight pound daughter. Mrs. Tunney, the former Polly Lauder, was resting comfortably in Harkness Pavilion. The Tunneys have three sons.

Foreign Exhibits Threaten to Close

Fair Corporation, Labor Unions Accused Again of Exorbitant Bills

New York, June 23 (AP).—A threat to close several small foreign concessions faced the New York World's Fair today as both the fair corporation and American labor unions were accused again of presenting exorbitant bills to foreign exhibitors.

Armando D'Ans, architect of the Argentine pavilion, said an illuminated map made in Argentina for $800 cost $8,807 to have repaired and installed at the fair. The bill, he said, included hire of three trucks and employment of 21 men for 95 hours each.

A representative of the contracting firm said some of the charges were "misunderstood" by the Argentines and that they had demanded the most expensive materials.

Shipton & Vandersteen Co., Ltd., proprietors of nine English and Dutch exhibits of jewelry, pottery and silverware, announced they would be compelled to close them if the fair persisted in demands for an increased commission on receipts. It complained rental fees already were exorbitant.

A Belgian publication, La Depeche Coloniale Belge, accused unions here of using "Gangster methods" in an article ironically entitled "Beauties of American Hospitality," and urged that the foreign minister in Belguim protest to the American government.

Last week foreign commissioners said the fair costs for 58 nations were $10,000,000 above expectations, mostly in overtime pay to workers "who did nothing." Labor officials countered that foreign exhibitors sought to undermine American labor standards.

Death for Smugglers

Rome, June 23 (AP).—The death penalty may be invoked in Italy in extreme cases of money smuggling. Officials said today that a law was being drafted to refer money exchange cases to a special tribunal for defense of the state, with "death penalty for the guilty in the most serious cases." Italy has been waging a fight to protect the lire in international exchange.

Mimic Sky War

British Broadcasters Take Precautions to Prevent Panic Over Program

London, June 23 (AP).—The British Broadcasting Corporation is doing its bit to educate the public to air raid dangers by broadcasting a mimic sky war tonight but is taking strict precautions to avert false alarm.

Listeners tuning in after 8:30 p. m. are to hear an announcement: "There has been a sudden deterioration in the international situation—a general mobilization has been ordered—all leave is cancelled . . ." This will be followed by sounds representing air battles over London.

The BBC has broadcast frequent warnings this week for listeners "not to get scared on Friday at 8:30. Most newspapers also have carried such warnings.

State Is Installing New Road Markers As Safety Measure

Department Is Using Three General Types of Lines; Motorists Are Warned About Violations

The system of pavement markings being installed on highways throughout the state, according to officials of the State Department of Public Works, is to establish traffic lanes and to increase the factor of traffic safety on major highways, at intersections, and at danger points like hills and curves.

Three general types of lines are used; a single broken line, a solid line, and combinations of broken-solid and double-solid lines.

The single broken line is a series of broken straight lines to mark traffic lanes. While it is not a violation of the law to cross the single broken lines, drivers are urged to keep to the right of those lines at all times save when passing other cars in the same lane of travel. Motorists are warned not to straddle the broken line, for straddling blocks two instead of one lane of traffic.

The single solid line is in the nature of a warning signal, directing traffic to stay to the right of the solid line. While it is not a violation of the law to cross a single solid line, it should be done only under unusual circumstances and when no approaching cars are in sight, Commissioner Schermerhorn said in explaining the new system. It is designed to be a substitute for a mall or grass plot built along the center of modern divided lane highways to keep traffic lanes separated. Motorists who cross single solid lines, and fail to keep to the right of them, are inviting accidents, Mr. Schermerhorn said.

Third type of standard marking is the double line, which is of two different classifications, a combination of a parallel broken and a parallel solid line, and a combination of two parallel solid lines.

Granite Slab May Prove to Be Gravestone of Virginia Dare

Gainesville, Ga., June 23 (AP)—The roughly carved lettering of a granite slab that may prove to be the gravestone of Virginia Dare, first white child born in America, was disclosed today by Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau College.

In addition to Virginia Dare, the stone bears the names of her father, Ananias Dare, and of 15 others presumably murdered by Indians in 1591, four years after they set foot on the new world. It is signed with the name of Eleanor Dare, mother of Virginia.

Dr. Pearce said that if the authenticity of this and a companion stone now in the Brenau College museum can be established, the mystery of Sir Walter Raleigh's famed "lost colony" will be near solution.

One stone was found on the bank of the Showan river near Edenton, N. C., in 1937 by a tourist. Its inscription purports to be a message from Eleanor Dare to her father, Gov. John White, saying savages had slain all but seven of the colonists. It tells of the burial of 17 on a hill and refers to a stone at the burial site listing the dead.

Governor White had gone back to England for supplies soon after planting the colony in Roanoke Island at Raleigh's behest in 1587. European wars delayed his return and when he sailed back four years later the colonists were gone and were never seen again by white men.

The first stone found its way to Brenau through Dr. Pearce's son, Dr. H. J. Pearce, Jr., a historian at Emory University. Its reference to a burial stone

Arthur Flemming Is Nominated To Federal Civil Service Board

Local Man Named Republican Member of U. S. Group by President; Before Senate

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Arthur S. Flemming, 34, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be a member of the Civil Service Commission. He would succeed Samuel H. Ordway who resigned.

Flemming, a native of Kingston, N. Y., now is director of the School of Public Affairs at American University here.

Mr. Flemming is the son of Surrogate and Mrs. Harry H. Flemming of 295 West Chestnut street and is a graduate of the grammar and high schools of this city. Following his graduation from Kingston High School Mr. Flemming entered Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, O., where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree.

Mr. Flemming's first position was with the American University in Washington, D. C., where he was instructor in political science in the undergraduate school. While teaching at the American University he also took post graduate work and secured his master's degree from that university.

With David Lawrence

While at the American University Mr. Flemming became acquainted with David Lawrence, noted writer, lecturer and publisher, whose column appears daily in this newspaper. Mr. Lawrence offered him a position on the United States Daily, which is published at Washington. While with David Lawrence he was promoted to the editorship of Uncle Sam's Diary, a publication with a circulation largely in high schools and colleges. Mr. Flemming received his law degree from George Washington University, Washington, D. C., taking his course there while in the employ of the David Lawrence publication.

Later he was called back to the American University to become director of a newly organized School of Public Affairs offering service training to government employes at the seat of government. Starting with an enrollment of 85 in 1934, this school has grown over a period of about five years to 1,200.

His work in this school brought him in close touch with Civil Service matters and a wide acquaintance with many interested

Senate House, Museum To Be Open on Sundays

In order that people passing through Kingston enroute to the New York World's Fair may have an opportunity of visiting the old Senate House and the Senate House museum here, arrangements have been made to keep the two buildings open on Sunday afternoons from 1 until 6 o'clock until October 1.

Kingston, the first capital of the State of New York, has a very interesting historical background which will attract many visitors from distant points as they pass through town and it is for the purpose of allowing such visitors to inspect the buildings that the trustees have decided to have the buildings open Sunday afternoons.

The first open house on Sunday was last week.

Huge Outlay for Canal, Road

President's Request for Nicaraguan Survey Fund of $200,000 Points Toward Outlay of From $25,000,000-$40,000,000 Eventually

Washington, June 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt's request that congress vote $200,000 to survey a barge canal and highway across Nicaragua looks to an ultimate outlay of from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 in the Central American republic.

These estimates were made officially today on the project which Mr. Roooosevelt said might have "a very important bearing upon the defense of the hemisphere."

Thus far no formal proposal has been advanced that the United States should finance the actual construction. The chief executive promised President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua only that army engineers would undertake the survey "as soon as the necessary financial arrangements can be made."

The project, proposed by President Somoza on his "good neighbor" visit here last month, is distinct from the long-controverted scheme for a major waterway between the Pacific and the Caribbean paralleling the Panama Canal.

Such a canal for warships and ocean commerce carriers would cost about $1,440,000,000, congress has been told.

A House committee pigeonholed the idea and instead recommended construction of a third set of locks for the Panama Canal, estimated to cost $277,000,000, to assure ready passage for the fleet in wartime.

The Nicaraguan barge canal, army engineers said, would accommodate small craft drawing up to 12 feet. The road would parallel it. The maximum length would be about 140 miles.

Leaders to Study Tax Revision Bill At End of Session

Measure Sweeps to Senate Passage Without Any Dissent, Goes Back to House Members

Washington, June 23 (AP).—With the business tax revision bill nearly ready for the President's signature, congressional leaders called today for a post-adjournment study looking toward a top-to-bottom overhaul of the revenue structure next year.

The tax bill, carrying levies designed to put $1,600,000,000 in the federal till for 1940, swept to Senate passage late yesterday without audible dissent.

Devised as the congressional answer to business complaints against "tax deterrents," the measure then had to go back to the House for acceptance of minor Senate amendments. Agreement was expected to be only a formality.

Besides revamping the corporation tax structure, the bill continues for two years $544,000,000 of excise taxes on such articles as automobiles, firearms, cosmetics and gasoline.

For corporations, the measure replaces the present undistributed profits tax with a flat 18 per cent income levy on companies earning more than $25,000 a year, and makes other changes asked by business.

Rough Edges

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the majority leader, told reporters "there are still a lot of rough edges" in the tax structure. He said it was probable that a joint Senate-House committee would be set up to study the revenue system during the congressional recess and draft a bill for presentation to the 1940 session.

"Although it might be difficult to enact a comprehensive new tax bill in an election year," he added, "we would at least have laid the groundwork for the revision."

Barkley said that among other things the committee might study the advisability of broadening the income tax base and removing present exemptions on income from federal and state securities.

In general, the corporation tax changes will not be felt until 1941 when corporations pay their taxes on income received during 1940.

For instance, the undistributed profits is killed as of December 31, this year, making effective for 1940 the new flat 18 per cent levy on corporations earning more than $25,000.

A two-year carry-over provision permits corporations to deduct their business losses for this year from income received in 1940.

The excise tax re-enactment is effective this June 30.

The perennial proposal of Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) to lower personal income tax exemptions was shouted down yesterday after the Senate had rejected on a 38 to 38 tie his amendment to increase income taxes on middle-bracket incomes. (Under parliamentary procedure, amendments fail on a tie).

FDR Would Not Exempt Loans on Lending Program

Issues for Lending Plan Would Fall, He Hopes, Into Taxable Groups, Gives Reason

Washington, June 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt expressed the hope today that government securities issued to finance his proposed new $3,860,000,000 lending program would not be tax exempt.

As administration leaders at the capitol studied the vast lending proposal to determine what new legislation may be necessary, the President answered many new questions about it at a press conference.

Asked whether the securities which would be issued by various federal agencies to raise funds to lend on a wide variety of self-liquidating projects would be exempt from taxes, the President said he did not know the law on that point but hoped they would not.

He added he hoped Congress would make it clear that no more public securities would be exempt from taxation.

Replying to a question as to the interest rate to be charged local governments for the loans, the President said this should be as low as possible and he expected both the principal and interest to be paid.

By Federal Agency

Much of the lending would be done by the new federal works agency which under the recently approved government reorganization plans goes into operation July 1.

The President said he expected to send to the senate today the nomination to head that agency and one of the other two new agencies under the reorganization.

Asked when he would appoint the six White House assistants as provided under the revamping orders, the President said he did not know whether any money was available to pay them.

Because Congress already is rushed with pre-adjournment legislation, there were some expressions of doubt that it could enact this session the six-point, seven-year plan involving projects classified as self-liquidating.

Legislative lieutenants said action this year would depend on the extent of new legislation needed.

After informal discussions, the leaders and interested committee chairmen are expected to accept the President's invitation to talk over the situation at the White House.

Among Loans

Designed to stimulate business and employment without costing the treasury any money, the President's program would authorize loans for various purposes, among them:

To states, cities and counties for sewers, bridges, hospitals, etc., to a new federal toll authority for toll bridges and express highways; to another federal corporation for purchase of railroad equipment; to farm tenants for purchase of land; to rural electrification administration, and to the export-import

Pleas From State Mayors' Conference Adds Today to Drama of Stalemate Over Budget

Four Points

Among Developments Is Stand by Lehman on Invitation

Albany, N. Y., June 23 (AP).—Deadlock between Governor Lehman and Republican legislative leaders tightened today as each failed to ask for a "peace conference" to decide procedure of a special session to validate the G. O. P. $390,000,000 budget, opening this afternoon.

In the face of renewed pleas from the State Mayors' Conference for a statewide sales tax for relief financing, both the Democratic executive and majority leaders remained in their capitol offices, each awaiting invitation from the other for a meeting designed to end the stalemate.

Among Developments

Developments as the leaders protested "being pushed around," and the governor urged "prompt action," to repair a section of the 1939-40 budget invalidated by the Court of Appeals two days ago, included:

Request by the State Mayors' Conference for a sales impost because the revenue problem "overshadows all other local government issues."

A stand by the governor that he already has invited leaders of both houses to decide special session procedure and work to be considered.

Declaration by majority leaders their overtures for a meeting with the executive were "flatly rejected," yesterday and "we refuse to sit on the governor's doorstep" to plead for a conference.

Expressed determination by G. O. P. chieftains to retain their $25,000,000 slashes in the governor's $415,000,000 program.

The conference asserted financial ability of 19 cities made furthering borrowing unwise, and maintained the borrowing power of 12 other cities "will be wiped out" at the end of 1939 if they borrow as much as they did last year for relief purposes.

Consideration of a sales tax, a controversial issue of the legislative session ending May 20, will depend, legislators agreed, on whether the governor "opens the door" to new taxing proposals in his opening message to the legislature defining its program.

The conference said it was instructed to appeal to the governor after it was agreed in a referendum of members there is need "for some state-collected tax or taxes" to be used solely to reduce the local tax on real estate and pay the local share of the cost of unemployment relief.

Republican leaders, claiming overtures to Governor Lehman for a conference on special session procedure to repair their invalidated budget were "repulsed," determined to ignore the Democratic executive until he urged their presence.

Republican Senate Leader Joe R. Hanley, expressing majority lawmakers' antagonism over the executive's speedy recall without consulting leaders, asserted he is willing to open the special session without conferring with the governor over procedure.

"I will not wait on the governor's doorstep until he permits us to enter," Hanley said. "It is up to the governor now to ask us to any conference over procedure."

'Purge' Predicted

Louisiana's 'Politicasters' Say Kingfish's Brother to Turn Against Foes

Baton Rouge, La., June 23 (AP)—Louisiana political wiseacres today predicted Earl K. Long, who is scheduled to become governor next week, would quickly institute a "purge" in the political machine created by his brother, the late Senator Huey P. Long.

Rumor held that Long, now lieutenant governor, would turn on foes within the organization the same relentless fury that marked the progress of his brother.

Quick work is needed, observers asserted, if Long is to preserve the one-time airtight political mansion left by the "Kingfish," for already several holes have been knocked in the walls by men who were friends of Huey but are not friends of Earl.

Publicly, Long gave no indication of his course except that he is determined to be elected to a full four-year term next January.

Excelsiors Win Prize at Catskill

Three local fire companies participated in the annual parade of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association at Catskill Thursday. Excelsior Hose Co. No. 4, again won the prize for the largest number of members in line. Five times Excelsiors have won the prize and yesterday after a lapse of five years from the convention parade they returned to again capture this prize.

A prize for the finest apparatus in line went to Suffern Seagrave Aerial Hook and Ladder of Suffern and the prize for the oldest apparatus went to Niagara Volunteer Company of Schoharie. Suffern also won the prize for the company coming the greatest distance and bringing their own music.

Judges were James Tancher of Binghamton, Louis Crauer of Poughkeepsie and Frank V. Wilson of Kinderhook

The Kingston delegation was headed by Weiner Hose Company, No. 6, led by Chief Murphy and fire commissioners and a detachment of the paid department. John N. Cordts Hose Company, No 8, followed with Excelsior Hose Company, No 4, and its band next. Fire Commissioner Charles J. Mullen marched with the Excelsior Hose boys.

It is estimated that 15,000 people lined the route of march and there were 110 companies and bands in line

The convention will be held at Haverstraw next year.

Garden 'Shorts' For Month of June

By The Master Gardener

Roses

To keep mildew and black spot in check, spray or dust roses frequently.

Keep rose beds thoroughly cultivated. This will help to reduce the number of rose bugs.

All good rosarians know that the fall blooms of roses are among the best. To make sure you will secure good fall bloom, pay special attention to feeding and cleanliness in the rose garden after the first bloom, and all through the summer.

Phlox

Dust plants frequently with sulphur, to prevent mildew.

Shrubs

Early blooming shrubs which are through flowering may be pruned at once; some of the old wood should be removed at the base. Then cultivate and feed with a complete, balanced plant food.

Gladiolus

Make additional plantings of gladiolus corms to provide for a supply of late flowers. Be sure to apply plant food when planting. If your first planting of glads are well up by now, a surface feeding of complete, balanced plant food will be beneficial at this time.

Hardy Mums

Pinch back hardy chrysanthemums to keep them stocky.

Feeding of mums for more and better blooms starts about the first of June. Use a complete, balanced plant food, feeding at intervals of about every three weeks. Be sure to water well both before and after feeding.

Early Blooming Perennials — After-Blooming Care

Perennials that have finished blooming should have the soil about them stirred up, and should be given a square meal of a complete, balanced plant food, watering the plants well after feeding, so the food will be washed down to the roots. It is important that perennials be fed after flowering because it is then that they start manufacturing food for development of next year's blooms. Food stored this summer and fall will to some extent determine the quality and number of flowers next year's plants will produce.

Two Crops for Every Garden Row

Getting the most produce from a small plot of ground is a problem for most urban and suburban gardeners. Where unlimited space is available for a garden, every vegetable may be grown in its own particular section, but with limited space, early and late crops must be doubled up.

Succession planting is the answer, and with a little investigation and planning on paper almost the entire gamut of garden edibles may be grown on a 20-foot square in one season.

In general, do not follow root crops with root crops or plants of one family with members of the same family. Here are a few combinations that work out excellently:

Late peas followed by celery; early peas followed by late cabbage; early lettuce by summer squash; spinach, lettuce, and radishes by bush lima beans; early beets by string beans; early string beans by fall beets; early carrots by endive or Chinese cabbage, early onions from sets by kale; peas by turnips, or carrots.

Tomatoes may be set between the rows of peas to get started while the peas are reaching maturity, and then the vines are reoved, leaving the entire space to the tomatoes. Cucumbers may be planted for pickles after the early lettuce, radishes, spinach and onions from sets are out of the way.

Peppers and eggplants may go in after the earliest spinach and radishes.

Naturally, when intensive cropping is practiced, additional plant food is needed. When the second crop is sown a balanced plant food should be applied at the rate of at least two pounds for each 100 square feet.

These dual arrangements are the most important factors in drawing the plan for the vegetable garden. The small garden plan should be worked out carefully before the seed order is sent in.

WISE INDIAN

Jose X. Pablo of the Papago Indian tribe is a sage among his own people and may well be so regarded beyond the desert country they inhabit. The Papago Indians live in southern Arizona in an arid region where making a living is not easy. They weave baskets of native bear grass, yucca and devil's claw, but they never have been so widely known to white Americans as some other tribes.

Jose Pablo heard of the San Francisco World's Fair, and that the Department of the Interior would have a booth there for Indian handiwork. He urged his tribesmen to spend some of their communal funds to get their baskets and themselves before the patrons of the Fair.

"When anybody makes some kind of machine, they usually advertise it," he told his people, "and sooner or later someone buys what they advertise. If we accept this and buy these baskets we make to send away, we may gain or lose on this, but it will tend to advertise the wares the Papagos may have.

"Sometimes we are discouraged before we start out, and it seems that a good many of you take the attitude that you are Indians and are not capable of accomplishing anything. The person that goes ahead with things and is not afraid to go ahead even if he is going to lose, is helping to advance the world just by advertising or introducing something new."

So the Papagos sent two women and one man to the fair to demonstrate their art and sell their products, and the venture has prospered. Jose's advice should be passed on to other Americans who have lost faith in themselves or their country.

ORIENTAL "POLICING"

It was reported recently that "Great Britain and France have asked the United States to cooperate with them in a coordinated plan for policing the Far East." Whether such a request has actually been made or not, there is no doubt that it is what the two big European democracies would like to have us do. Our relations with them are close but informal. At a time when they are hard-pressed on many fronts, and in danger of being kicked out of the Orient by Japan, they would naturally welcome our help.

Ordinarily an appeal of that kind would be ignored. But it happens that American interests, too, have been rudely kicked around by Japan, not only during her recent invasion of China but ever since the Tokyo imperialists took over Manchuria. And we are getting rather fed up with Japanese aggression and insolence.

Britain and France may be getting what they deserve now, because they refused to support our Asiatic policy in the beginning. But that's water over the dam. The present question is whether the Japanese are going to kick all of us out of Asia and the western Pacific, and make themselves as great a nuisance in that vast region as the Nazis and Fascists are making themselves in Europe.

Here is probably the biggest foreign problem our government and public have to face right now. And what we should do about it is not at all clear.

TALE OF TWO CITIES

It might do much for the peace of the world if the Nazis today could see themselves as others see them.

"Danzig is German," Propaganda Minister Goebbels told a cheering audience there last Sunday, "and no amount of diplomacy or power-politics can change that." So Danzig has to come into the German Reich, even if it causes a great war. It is an absolute Nazi principle that Germans in blood must have a German government. Danzig, 90 per cent German, actually has complete local self-government, but is under the Polish flag, and is subject to rather moderate national laws and taxes. That is intolerable.

Well, Prague, the Bohemian capital, is Czech. It is more completely Czech than Danzig is German. And its citizens would be very happy today if they had the self-government, freedom, dignity and prosperity that the Danzig Germans have. They did have these blessings; but Hitler, in spite of his own pledges, deprived them of their liberties, nationality and prosperity.

Germans themselves should be able to see that, as practised by their Nazi rulers, the sanctity of race is a false issue.

CABBY'S BUDGET

Once more the mine of taxi-driver wisdom produces a nugget. It comes from a cabby who did a good many other things before he began hauling other people around for a living.

"I used to make a lot more money and spend a lot more," he said. "When we had a good salary we were always living beyond it. It took a cab-driving job to bring us to our senses."

Now that he had been brought to his senses, he was pretty self-satisfied about it, and with reason. "All you've got to do is figure out how much money you have and what you need. It's simple," he explained.

"Now we've got to have the kid's tonsils out this summer. But that's all right. We have money in the bank for it. Then by September we've got to have that money replaced so we'll be ready for whatever comes next."

It does sound simple in such matter-of-fact words. And maybe that's all a lot of harried men and women need—a little clear thinking in terms of a cabby's budget.

TOP PERSONALITY

Outstanding among college verdicts, as you might say, is the selection of Adolf Hitler by Princeton seniors as "the outstanding personality of the year." He got several times as many votes as Chamberlain, Roosevelt and other governmental heads.

Still, it doesn't necessarily follow that the Princeton vote was meant to express admiration for the Fuehrer. The college boys probably mean to say that he has kicked up a bigger rumpus than anybody else. And therein newspaper people taking a world view will probably agree with them. Adolf is the biggest advertiser and stirrer-upper anywhere.

PREVENTING TOOTH DECAY

When you read about the thousands of defects in school children revealed by school physicians and dentists you may become unduly alarmed. The Indiana State Board of Health monthly report states that investigations by the United States Public Health Service and other agencies show that among physical defects—nose, throat, eyes, ears, chest, and general physique — observed in school children, dental defects outnumber all others combined.

The fact that it is only defects in the teeth that are so numerous may cause you to dismiss these reports from your mind, but teeth defects can be a very serious matter if neglected in childhood. The youngster may later have poor chewing surfaces, indigestion, intestinal disturbances, and, most important of all, may develop an inferiority complex due to the condition and shape of his mouth which spoils the whole expression of his face.

"It is a known fact that dental decay has increased with civilization. In olden times, before food was refined and cooked, when our ancestors had to depend upon raw grains, nuts, and similar foods, care of the teeth was unnecessary. Examination of many of the skulls of early peoples in this country, many of whom died more than one hundred years ago, before contact with our modern civilization, show little, if any tooth decay. The structure was built properly to begin with; the jaws were exercised by grinding hard foods, and the teeth and gums were cleaned by eating raw fruits and vegetables. When civilization is not advanced, dental decay is powerless."

Another point that dentists and food research experts point out is that not only will hard "chewy" food strengthen and cleanse teeth and gums and prevent pyorrhoea, but fruits and vegetables, together with dairy products, are the best known tooth builders.

In these days we all eat the refined and cooked foods of our civilization. These foods are "inviting" and stimulate our digestive juices so that the food is readily digested. And we will likely continue to eat them.

However, if we and our children would eat "some" coarse hard foods daily, we and they would have fewer defects of teeth and gums.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

BANK DEPOSITORS SQUEEZED AGAIN
Babson Says Savings Accounts Not Worth Much Any More

Babson Park, Mass., June 23—Savings depositors are soon to get another kick in the pants. In certain states, interest on these accounts is to be slashed again to as low as 1 per cent in many cases. In some banks, depositors, whose accounts are below a certain minimum, will receive no interest. Cost of these reductions to bank depositors may run into hundreds of millions of dollars. This is a far cry from 10 years ago when banks begged people to deposit their money at 4 per cent interest.

All of the 45,000,000 owners of bank accounts realize that the return on their money has been drastically cut. I doubt, however, if many recognize the far-reaching social and economic effects of this decline in interest rates. One of the biggest contributions to our present standard of living was the thrift of our fathers and grandfathers. Up to 1925-1930 thrift and initiative were encouraged, while indolence and carelessness were penalized. Today, the trend is in the opposite direction.

Penalizing Thrift

This trend, rather than the dollars and cents in interest lost to depositors, is the really significant point about the drop in interest rates on savings accounts. Let me explain the importance of this trend by following the situation step-by-step. Why is it that banks must cut interest rates again and must stop paying interest on small accounts? The answer is easy. The banks do not want any more deposits or depositors.

Why do they not want more deposits? Because they cannot invest money with safety and get a sufficient return to pay 2 or 2½ per cent on their deposits. There are only a few ways in which banks can invest their money—bonds, real estate, and commercial loans. Just glance at these outlets for bank's money and you will see that they have no choice but to cut their interest rates.

Good $1,000 bonds, for instance, carrying a coupon of 3½ per cent, are selling for $1,100. This means that banks have to pay a $100 premium for the privilege of investing their money at 3½ per cent. Banks have been discouraged from making real estate loans except through the FHA. Even here interest rates are being cut to 4½ and 4¼ per cent. If a bank can loan money to a good reputable business concern on a short-term basis at 2 per cent it is lucky. As far as government bonds are concerned, banks are fortunate if they can get a 1 per cent return.

The next question is: Why are these interest rates so low? In the first place, the banks have more cash on hand than they ever had in their history. In the second place, with the exception of the government, no one wants to borrow this money. However, there are so many banks and other institutions crazy to gobble up every new government loan that the returns on government bonds are at an all-time historical low. Money rates on business loans are extremely easy because business men do not need to borrow money—they are not expanding nor are they starting new businesses.

Taxes Big Handicap

The next question is: Why are businessmen not starting new businesses and expanding their present businesses? The biggest reason is our tax system. The tax handicap is so obvious I cannot understand why Congress and state and local authorities do not correct it. When business men borrow money to start new businesses and to provide new jobs, no one helps them if they fail; but when they succeed, the tax authorities take practically all the profits away from them.

These businessmen know that they can now retire with enough to provide for themselves and family even though their income has been sharply reduced. So, why take chances on a "heads-you-won, tails-I-lose" basis? Not until the capital gains tax is drastically reduced will we see new businesses started and existing businesses expanding. In addition, there are hundreds of other taxes which retard business. Some of these, however, are now being adjusted by Congress.

Furthermore, our labor laws in their present form are stifling jobs and holding back employers. The Unemployment Compensation tax of 3 per cent, the Wage and Hour Act with its over-time provisions, the one-sided Wagner Labor Act, all discourage employers from expanding or starting new businesses, limiting opportunities for profitable investment of bank deposits, and handicapping the creation of new jobs for the unemployed.

Because of this, unemployment holds close to its all-time peak. Someone has to provide welfare and relief for the jobless and the government has taken over the task. So on the one hand the government is discouraging employers, and on the other hand is spending billions of taxpayers' money to provide for the jobless. These billions have to be met by higher and higher taxes, thus making existing employers poorer, throwing more men out of jobs and further discouraging new employers.

"Drink, Eat and be Merry"

Therefore, demand for money and the opportunities for profitable investment of bank deposits are constantly becoming less-and-less. So banks have to cut their interest on deposits. This discourages people from building up reserves and encourages them to spend their money on frills and wasteful luxuries. When these people lose their jobs or get into difficulties, they have to come to the government for help, thus adding to government expenses, causing higher taxes, further discouraging employers and limiting opportunities for bank loans—and on around the vicious circle again.

I hold no brief for bankers. They have their faults just as you and I. But let us be fair about this interest rate situation. When you get your notice some time before the year is over that the interest on your account is to be cut do not blame it all on your banker. He is up against a tough problem and, as I see it, he has no alternative.

Honesty is the best policy, but a lot of people refuse to accept it as a working principal.

Back to the Days of President Hoover Goes the Swing of Governmental Lending Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 23.—Back to the days of President Hoover goes the swing of governmental lending policy. On a somewhat broader scale, but using the same fundamental approach, President Roosevelt has inaugurated a plan for government support of private lending operations calculated to start the wheels of recovery going.

The idea of a revolving fund for government lending operations is not new. For nearly seven years now, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been functioning that way. As fast as loans are repaid, the money is used over again for further governmental purposes. The PWA loans were originally financed with government money and then sold to the public as bond issues, and, when the proceeds came back to the government, the capital was applied once more to lending.

The new scheme differs only in detail. More government agencies are involved. More "self-liquidating" projects are introduced, and it is said by the President that there are so many available he had a hard time selecting the ones he wants approved. By a "self-liquidating" project is meant an enterprise which can pay interest charges and annual payments on principal over a period of years, so that the whole amount is fully repaid and a certain sum is earned by the government in lending the money.

In a sense, the government goes into the business of making a profit on money-lending. The investment bankers have been unable to do much capital financing in recent years, due to heavy costs of registration statements or restrictions of the SEC, or due to the timidity of private capital. The cry of "lack of confidence" has been raised as the reason for the stoppage of the capital flow.

The new plan is designed to answer such arguments by giving the investor a government guarantee. This also will cause the interest rate to be lower than if the government did not stand back of the transaction. The President, in his public statement, makes it clear that the plan is to be operated so that it will be "in no way competitive with private enterprise."

This assurance is sincerely given at the top, but, in the actual consummation of the plans, it usually goes into the discard. When funds were authorized for public power areas, it was declared by the administration at first that there would be no competition with private enterprise, and then subsequently the alibi was used that the federal government was an innocent party in the transaction and that the demand came legitimately from the municipalities. This statement was made in the face of evidence that salesmen for government agencies induced municipalities to seek funds for the competition.

If Congress likes the new lending plan, and there is no reason why some of it will not help to improve business, a provision could be inserted that none of the funds can be used for public projects which compete with private enterprise, and that a special commission be created, subject to congressional check only, to which all disputes as to whether or not private enterprise is adversely affected shall be submitted.

In the case of railroad equipment loans, the government, of course, would be doing what was done in the time of the World War and immediately afterward, when the credit of the railroads was impaired and equipment was sorely needed. The extension of loans to promote foreign trade is also an orthodox transaction, carried on to a smaller extent recently by the Export-Import Bank.

The whole plan would not increase the public debt unless some of the loans went sour. It is contended that the profit made by the interest charges would more than make up the losses. The answer, of course, would not be available for another ten years or so, as most of the loans would be long term, but in the meantime business would be stimulated.

By The AP Feature Service

This is the fifth in a series of six weekly features on "grow houses," so-called because they're designed to permit additions to meet a growing family's requirements. Plans and specifications are not available through this paper but local architects can work out plans to fit individual needs.

An entrance hall to keep out cold blasts is a feature of this "grow house" for particularly blustery climates. The dining alcove is left open to give an impression of greater space to the living room and to afford extra light and ventilation. The small hall to the bath can be extended to provide a private entrance hall to the two future bedrooms, indicated by dotted lines. Long walls in the living room make the placing of furniture easier. The basic house costs about $2,330 and the two future bedrooms $530. Those figures are based on costs in an average mid-western community. Such items as lot, range, and architect's service would add about $750. The design meets the rigid requirements of the Federal Housing Administration.

Next week: A grow house planned for a large second bedroom.

Eastern Educator Rotary President

Cleveland, June 23 (AP).—An eastern educator who has "been around in Rotary a good many years," today assumed the presidency of the far-flung organization of Rotary International.

He is Walter D. Head, 56, headmaster of Montclair Academy at Montclair, N. J., elected by Rotary's 30th annual convention to succeed George C. Hager of Chicago. He will serve until the 1940 convention in Rio De Janeiro in June.

He was chosen in a run-off election, defeating Dr. Amos O. Squire of Ossining, N. Y., 1,837 to 1,221 after the regular election failed to give a majority to any of the three candidates. Richard C. Hedke, Detroit manufacturer, was eliminated in the regular election.

"Dudes" Who Ride Horses

Denver (AP)—State Humane Officer W. B. Wheeler says the new generation out west "just doesn't understand horses." "They ride in a motor car up to some mountain resort, jump on a horse's back and expect the noble hay burner to go 50 miles an hour."

J. C. PENNEY COMPANY, INCORPORATED

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Apprised that the East Bros., Horace and Morris, can be located in Diffenderfer's Penny Arcade, Mr. Steele takes himself there, and finds a freak show.

Chapter 15

Invitation To The Ball

THE undivided attention of the entire company of freaks was now riveted on the shooting-gallery man and William. So was the undivided attention of the group of bystanders. The shooting-gallery man, evidently accustomed to publicity, bore up exceedingly well under these batteries of eves. Not so William. He began to feel acutely uncomfortable. Striving for nonchalance, he passed a finger around the inside of his collar. Then, aware immediately that this gesture had failed to establish him as a gentleman who is confidently at ease, he took off his hat and wiped his face with a handkerchief.

"Tee hee," gurgled Pearl the snake-charmer, in the midst of this operation.

William reddened. His not to know that Pearl was merely giggling out of the lightness of her heart.

The shooting-gallery magnate spoke again, testily.

"Well, c'mon, c'mon," he said to Horace and Morris. "What's da matter wid you dopes?"

The fact that they were sent for seemed to dawn simultaneously on Horace and Morris East. They arose as one. As one they pushed their way through the assemblage of monstrosities. As one they covered the few feet to the edge of the platform. And Mr. William Steele, gazing at them with eyes that would have been notable even in the head of a flabbergasted goldfish, experienced a sudden sinking sensation. He gripped the platform with both hands and turned to the shooting-gallery man.

"Good gosh," he exclaimed hoarsely, "what is it?"

The shooting-gallery man was a stickler for facts.

"It ain't an 'it'," he corrected. "It's two of 'em."

"Yes. I see. B-but . . ."

"Aw," said the shooting-gallery man, "what's da matter? Ain't ya never seen Siamese twins before?"

Came the dawn for Mr. William Steele of California. At long last he understood the mystery of those perplexing letters after the name of the East brothers in the Manhattan telephone directory. He was suddenly aware of the reason for the sinister leer and cryptic speech of the delicatessen man. And he was likewise aware that, unless he wanted to drop one thousand cold smackers, he would appear in due course in a fashionable section of Long Island looking like the guy who invented that useful crack anent two birds and but a single stone.

Recovering somewhat from his astonishment, he now took time out and studied the Messrs. East. They were small men, smooth-faced and owlish of eye. Separated from the other, either would have been a Grade A nonenity. They got across purely because they were joined together. Morris lay a short degree to the left of Horace and at a weird, oblique angle. Horace returned the compliment by striking off a short degree to the right of Morris at a similar angle. To add to the confusion, they were dead ringers for each other. Further than that, through long and close association perhaps, they had formed the habit of acting simultaneously. Did Horace cough. Morris did likewise. Were Morris to incline his head in one direction, Horace felt it incumbent to incline his head in the same direction. If Horace's nose twitched slightly, so did the nose of Morris.

Verbal Bait

THE shooting-gallery man made small talk.

"Dey was born dis way," said the shooting-gallery man, with a certain ill-concealed satisfaction.

William turned to the East brothers.

"Is that a fact?" he said pleasantly.

"Absolutely," said Mr. Horace East.

"Positively," said Mr. Morris East.

"Morris," said Horace, "be quiet."

"But I only said . . ."

An exasperated expression crossed the face of Horace East.

"Morris," he demanded sharply, "who is the brains of the act?"

"Why—er—oh, I suppose you are," said Morris gloomily.

"Exactly. Now will you be quiet and let me handle this?"

Mr. William Steele, the first fine flush of his embarrassment gone, had been probing the recesses of his mind for some enticing verbal bait with which to lure Horace and Morris East to Long Island and still abide by the rules of the game of North, South, East and West. Nothing, however, of a very exhilarating nature had occurred to him. But he realized that he was on the spot here.

"Listen," he said abruptly, "you fellows want to go on a swell loop?" He was aware, as he spoke, that this reference to festivities might be construed as a breach of the rules. But, for the moment, he waived the rules. William was feeling hard-pressed.

"Loop?" said the section of the East brothers known as Horace, blankly.

"Yes. You know, sort of a party."

"Party?" queried Horace East. "You mean you're inviting us to a party?"

"That's it," said William, delighted at how quickly Mr. East caught on.

A thoughtful expression crossed the face of Horace East. A similar expression crossed the face of Morris East. As one they appeared to think.

"You will have to explain this a little further," Horace said.

This was precisely what William dreaded to do. He was, he felt, in no position to explain anything. The shooting-gallery man loomed at his shoulder, breathing down his neck in a frenzy of curiosity. The little knot of cash customers had pressed steadily and tortuously closer. And on the platform the freaks, wide-eyed with suppressed excitement, were craning their necks in order to lose neither a word nor a shade of meaning. Even Anastasia, the python, seemed to be flowing a few feet nearer him. Hemmed in on all sides by undesirables, William was experiencing sensations akin to those of a professed Christian in ancient Rome. And yet, unless he made himself clear, he was obviously going to get nowhere fast. He girded loins.

"Look here," he said in a low voice, "I don't blame you for being confused. But it's the simplest thing in the world. Listen!" Rapidly he sketched the events which had given rise to North, South, East and West.

The East brothers heard him out in bewildered silence. Finally Horace shook his head.

"I don't get the idea," he said helplessly.

"You don't have to," William said. "I've just told you that I can't go into very many details. But there's nothing to worry about. All you've got to do is put yourselves unreservedly in my hands."

"But what's the point of it?"

"No point. Just fun."

Sold!

HORACE EAST came to a decision.

"It can't be done," he said flatly.

"Of course, it can't," confirmed Morris. "We . . . ."

"Morris!" said Horace warningly.

William, right on his toes, sensed that the quarry was about to elude him. He got a grip on himself.

"Hey!" he said glibly. "Let's cut the fencing. I'll give you birds fifty bucks apiece, cash money, to do this thing for me."

As a well-directed forward pass often changes the aspect of a football game, so did mention of lucre alter the complexion of the business in hand.

"Fifty dolars?" cried Horace incredulously.

"Fifty?" echoed Morris.

"Fifty," nodded Bill.

"For one night?"

"One night," said Bill.

Even a bystanding imbecile could have seen that remarkable progress had been made. Horace East rubbed his hands.

"Morris," he said, "we must consider this."

They straightway went into a huddle. William waited, fidgeting.

"Would we," inquired Horace, coming out of the huddle, "have to do anything? Would we be expected to amuse anybody?"

"No," said William. "Nothing like that."

"When is this affair?" Horace asked.

"On a Saturday night, about three weeks from now," Bill told him.

Horace seemed to hesitate. So did Morris. William sensed victory. But to clinch it, he turned on the heat.

"On second thought," he said, "this is worth more to me." He paused for effect, then bumped the ante in a big way. I'll make it a hundred apiece. Well, what do you say? Is is a deal?"

Horace and Morris seemed to use the same breath in which to gasp. "A hundred dollars apiece? For a one-night stand?"

"You've got it," said William, feeling like Morgan.

Horace East snapped his fingers. "Sold," he said tersely.

"Sold," said Morris.

A great feeling of peace descended over William. It was over. Horace and Morris were in the bag. But William had long since schooled himself to a becoming modesty in moments of triumph. Now, though distinctly aware that he had just put over a smart deal, he looked down at the floor in an attempt at self-effacement.

He raised his eyes presently with a view to discussing minor details. To his amazement, however, the East brothers were not present for discussion. True, they still blotted the horizon, but only after the manner of a double order of sidewinder crab making its getaway.

William turned to the shooting-gallery tycoon for an explanation of this phenomenon. But the shooting-gallery tycoon was departing hastily. And, to make the desertion of forces complete, the little gallery of onlookers had withdrawn in a body to the extreme end of the platform.

Baffled, William scratched his head. This was all very strange. A moment ago these individuals had been clinging to him as though they were barnacles and he a ship of the line. And now, presto! He stood as deserted as an earmuff emporium in Central Africa.

Our ancestors moved toward responsibility. We shrink from it.

Teacher—Can you tell me what Australia is bounded by, Junior?

Junior—Kangaroos, sir.

READ OR NOT—

Six hundred people die every day in the United States of diseases we know how to cure.

Customer—So you've got to get rid of that pretty assistant you had?

Druggist—Yes; all my men customers kept saying that a smile from her was as good as a tonic.

Let's make the transition to the more solid part by this distinction in terms.

Salary: Something paid to you for what you do.

Income: Something paid to you for what your father did.

Lean—So you call yourself a vegetarian and here you are buying a beefsteak.

Hefty—Yes, you may call this a beefsteak, but I call it forbidden fruit.

Have you heard the story about the man on relief who was so accustomed after years of unemployment to having everything done for him that he went out and married a widow with three children?

Youth—Now, on this ring I should like you to engrave: "For my darling Muriel."

Jeweler—Would it not be better to have is simply: "For my darling"?

Little Billy, four, was being shown the shape of the earth on an atlas by his mother. After pointing to all the countries with their peculiar shapes, she asked:

Mother—Now, Billy, what shape is the world?

Billy (looking very wise and happy)—It's in a terrible shape, daddy says.

A very particular housekeeper was having her bedroom painted. Wishing to learn what progress the painter was making, she crept to the bottom of the stairs and listened. Not a sound reached her ears.

She—Painter, are you working?

Painter—Yes, ma'am.

She—I can't hear you making a sound.

Painter—Perhaps, not, ma'am. I ain't puttin' the paint on with a hammer.

The husband came home one evening recently and gave his wife an insurance policy:

He—I've insured my life for ten thousand dollars so that if anything happens to me you will be provided for.

She—How nice and thoughtful of you. Now you won't have to see a doctor every time you feel ill, will you?

SHOKAN

Shokan, June 22—Arnold Dickinson of Poughkeepsie was a business caller in the village Tuesday.

Religious services were held in the Olive and Hurley O. S. Baptist meeting house Sunday. Elder Arnold Bellows, pastor of the church was absent on a preaching call at Salisbury, Md. Out of town Baptists attending the services included Amasa Slawson and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Winchell of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Osborn of Athens, Mrs. Arnold Bellows of West Hurley, and Mrs. Fred Brooks, the church secretary, of Phoenicia.

George VonderOsten, local war veteran, is spending a few days in New York.

The historical address of the Rev. Charles Palmer was of much reader interest here. The Rev. Mr. Palmer and wife are pleasantly remembered in Shokan, the couple having resided in the old village for several years.

William Windrum, who died suddenly Tuesday while on a ride around the reservoir, was one of this section's best known summer residents. A son of the late Samuel Windrum who died here in 1879, he had been coming to the village for many years. His summer home on the state road was built by his sister, Miss Bell Windrum, now deceased. Mr. Windrum during recent years had conducted a cloth-cutting business in New York city.

Earl Brundage, mountain road farmer and blacksmith, having sold his farm to the Freese family of Long Island, will sell his stock, tools and household effects at auction Friday, June 30.

Patricia Toman, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Toman of the state road, participated in her first church communion last Sunday.

Harrison Gridley, formerly principal of the Ashokan school, was in the reservoir country Sunday.

June 23, 1867, funeral services were held in the Shokan M. E. Church for Mrs. Anna Hill, wife of the Rev. William Hill, an early Methodist clergyman here. The Rev. Mr. Keogan preached the funeral sermon.

Robert Hogan and family of Kingston were Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. Julia Hogan.

Much of the beneficial effects accruing from Tuesday evening's brief shower was dissipated by a drying wind on the following day. The drouth is now getting serious, brooks are disappearing and household water supplies dwindling. There are signs that the corn crop is becoming adversely affected along with small grains and grass.

Mrs. Amasa Slawson, a former resident of Shokan who has been ill for many months, is still confined to her bed at the Slawson home in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Naughton were at their Shokan place Sunday for the first time since last fall. The Naughtons expect to remain at their home in Fleetwood much of the time this summer.

Mrs. Lawrence Spencer of the north boulevard sustained a broken leg in a fall at her home, Tuesday. The injured woman lay helpless for some time until found by her husband upon his return from work.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks of Stone Ridge called on Shokan relatives Sunday.

New Strong Arm

Bolton Landing, N. Y., June 22 (AP).—Members of the State Real Estate Association considered today a plea by their president, B. J. O'Reilly, of Niagara Falls, for a "new strong arm of force" to oppose increased taxation on property as they opened a three-day convention. He cited Governor Lehman's recent unsuccessful proposal for a direct tax on real estate and said the association would seek a merging of all realty interests "for protection."

Olympia, Wash. (AP)—The state of Washington is celebrating its 50th anniversary, and it is doing so under that name only because of a Kentuckian.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, June 22—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baldwin of Oneonta, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Newman for a few days.

Miss Frances Hill is entertaining friends from Delhi.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis Schumacher of New York city spent the week-end at their home.

Roscoe Paul of Kingston is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Harry Breithaupt.

Miss Mary Foran of New Jersey, is spending some time with her cousin, Miss Mary Gormley.

Mrs. George Conway and children, are spending two weeks with relatives in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Shurter, spent the week-end in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. George Verschoor of New York, spent the week-end at their summer home.

Mrs. Grant Wyckoff of Kingston, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ennist.

Mrs. William Malloy, Jr., was a Kingston caller on Friday.

Thief Spoils Fire Truck

Pisa Tower Was Meant To Lean, Historians Say

Whatever opinions may exist concerning the leaning of the famous Tower of Pisa, the tower was built leaning and has not wavered a fraction of an inch in the 600 years since it was finished, according to historians at the University of Pisa.

Although popularly believed to have leaned some time after the Fourteenth century due to the sinking of the earth under the monument, records show, the scholars assert, that when construction reached a height of about 33 feet the foundation had ceded to one side by seven inches.

Then, under the supervision of Bonanno da Pisa, the famous architect and sculptor who had carved in bronze the great door for the Duomo in Pisa, it is believed that Bonanno decided to preserve this lean, both from a desire to attempt a new application of statics and because of the fame that would come to him if he succeeded.

In defense of this explanation, it is pointed out that towers similar in design to the one in Pisa were common throughout northern Italy during the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, and that Bonanno might well have wished to be distinguished for something more than a bell tower to supplement Pisa's new cathedral and chapel. Thus, although Bonanno did not live to see the tower completed, he had so far advanced its construction when he died that his successors, Guglielmo d'Innsbruck and Tommaso Pisano, had no choice but to continue in his footsteps.

Charleston Market Kept On Site Since About 1790

The old Charleston market in New York has undergone extensive repairs more than once since it was first erected on its present site some time between 1790 and 1806. Though antedated by a beef market, which stood from early days almost where the city hall is now, and by a fish mart established in 1770 on an East bay water lot opposite the end of Queen street, the present institution seems to have been the first general market in Charleston.

It stands on made ground where formerly a creek ran, says the Charleston News and Courier. By 1768 this had been reduced to a narrow canal, which stretched through privately owned land from the Cooper river as far as Church street.

On March 19, 1768, Charles Cotesworth Pickney, John Deas, Thomas Jones, Sims White, John Wyatt and Mary Lingard gave an indenture by which they allowed the city council to lay out a street 100 feet wide through their land, from Meeting street to the Cooper, and to build a public market or markets therein. The buildings were not to be put up for two years, but once there were to remain. A plat annexed to the deed shows the canal, crossed at East Bay (then Bay street) by the "Governor's bridge," and the three projecting buildings.

Still Resist Innovation

In 1913, seven years after his patent for the vacuum tube was granted, Lee de Forest was indicted on a charge of using the mails to defraud. In his attack the district attorney remarked: "De Forest has said in newspapers and over his own signature that it would be possible to transmit the human voice across the Atlantic before many years. Based on these absurd and deliberately misleading statements the misguided public, Your Honor, has been persuaded to purchase stock in his company." A. D. McFadyen, an examiner in the electrical division of the Patent Office, told this to the National Electrical Manufacturers association recently just to show that we are still as resistant to innovation as were our forebears, who thought that iron ships would sink and that the wheels of locomotives would spin on slippery tracks without getting trains anywhere.

Best Known Designer

Thomas Chippendale, whose name is perhaps best known of all the famous furniture craftsmen, worked almost exclusively with mahogany wood. He developed four variations of style, a development and refinement of the Queen Anne, Gothic, Chinese and French motifs. The early Chippendale furniture was not always so comfortable because of the sharply curved decorative backs. The early pieces by Chippendale bore characteristics such as the cabriole leg, center splats and bars, pierced and scrolled. The ladder backs he made at a later date and he also made the fret backs and square backs. It is interesting to note that the claw and ball foot supposed to have been used by him does not appear in his own book.

Japanese police statistics show that most crimes are committed by unemployed men.

Apple Growers Approve Oxholm

Theodor Oxholm of Esopus was unanimously approved by Hudson Valley apple growers at a meeting held Thursday evening at Gerow Schoonmaker's storage plant at Wallkill, and was nominated to serve as institute director for the ensuing year. The election is expected at the annual meeting of the New York and New England Apple Institute, Inc., to be held on July 11 and 12 in Springfield, Mass.

It was brought out at the meeting last night that generally speaking a good crop of apples is expected this season in the Hudson Valley, particularly McIntosh.

Upwards of 50 growers attended the meeting.

Speakers were Thomas H. O'Neill, field representative for the Apple Institute, who told of actual work the institute has been doing and of some of its accomplishments. Growers were urged to identify themselves as members of the institute.

It was stated that operation is financed by growers voluntarily contributing one cent per bushel on their commercial crops of apples (culls and drops excepted).

Although the meeting was not held as a membership drive session, there were 135,000 bushels signed up by growers from Ulster and Orange counties who were attending the meeting.

Leslie Herring of Ulster Park, a former director of the institute, presided at the meeting.

Mr. Oxholm, when his nomination was made unanimous, expressed the opinion that the job of director should rotate from year to year for the good of the institute, but the growers present insisted that owing to his knowledge of institute operation and the excellent job he had been doing on the executive committee, he should accept the nomination.

Various topics of interest to growers were discussed with DeWitt G. Crowell of Wallkill leading the discussion.

Cyril G. Small, assistant county agent of Ulster county, discussed latest information on insects and diseases.

$25,000 Damage to the Old Fallsburgh Mill

Damage to the old LeFevre paper mill at Old Fallsburgh, which was discovered to be on fire early Sunday morning, is estimated at around $25,000. Firemen from a number of nearby communities fought the fire until dawn in an attempt to get it under control.

State police who have been investigating the fire believe it may have been incendiary as tramps recently have been sleeping in part of the structure.

The mill several times during the past 75 years has burned and been rebuilt, but reports are that it will not be rebuilt again. It has been running at a slow pace of late and last week but a few employes were working, in the finishing room.

Man Is Given Four Life Terms in Attica

Buffalo, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—State Supreme Court Justice William A. Gold sentenced John J. Coogan, 39, today to four concurrent life terms in Attica State Prison in connection with the arson-deaths of an elderly man and three children.

An all-male jury convicted Coogan of first degree murder and first degree arson last Saturday.

The state charged Coogan, unemployed trucker, set fire to waste paper placed in a milk bottle receptable in the home of William B. Clark, Jr., his former employer, last March 11.

Victims of the blaze were William B. Clark, Sr., 78; his grandchildren, William B. Clark, Third, 10, and his sister, Bernetta, 8, and James B. Shannon, 10, the children's overnight guest.

State Is Installing New Road Markers

If a driver is to the right of a solid line, he may not cross the solid line without violating the law. If is to the right of a broken line in combination with a solid line, he may cross the two lines providing there is no danger in sight. On going up a hill, for instance, the driver will be to the right of the solid line in combination, and to cross it would be a violation of the law. Were he coming down the same hill, he would be to the right of the broken line in combination, and would be permitted to cross the two lines without violating the law, were conditions safe.

The double solid lines may not be crossed under any circumstances without breaking the law. They are utilized at dangerpoints, where visibility is short, such as at the crest of hills, on sharp curves, and at intersections. Drivers must keep to the right of double solid lines until the markings change.

Boys Are Trespassing On Railroad Property

Danger to life and limb by boys trespassing on railroad property was strongly emphasized today by Sergeant E. W. Schoonmaker of the New York Central police force.

The sergeant, talking of the danger, said that boys are in the practice of crossing the tracks and entering the railroad yards while trains are in motion. He also said that a dangerous practice was that of boys climbing up on box cars.

While it is against the law to trespass on railroad property the police are not anxious to make arrests, but urge that parents cooperate in keeping the children off the tracks and away from railroad cars.

Objections Are Made to Awards

Objection was made today to the confirmation of awards made by Commission No. 6 on behalf of claimants when the matter came before Justice Schirick at special term. Cleon B. Murray, appearing in the Eck matter, objected to the award on the grounds it was insufficient, and he asked that the matter be referred to another commission for determination. Objection was also made to the allowances made to expert witnesses by the commission on the grounds the allowances were insufficient. Allowances for witnesses must be approved by the court.

George F. Kaufman and Thomas Plunket, appearing for other claimants, also objected to the amount of awards on the same grounds, and asked the court to take testimony as to the allowances made by expert witnesses. The commission cut the amount of allowances asked by the experts and an application was made to the court to increase the allowances. Decision was reserved.

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Mancuso of Route 1, Kingston, a daughter, Maria Josephine, in Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah J. Quick of Samsonville, a daughter, Reita Marie, in Benedictine Hospital.

Only blind or partially blind persons may be masseurs in Japan. The restriction is based on the theory that persons with good eyesight can do more difficult work.

Civil Service Fee Effective July 1

Applicants to take municipal civil service examinations in Kingston hereafter, will have to pay a fee when they file an application blank, according to a new law which becomes effective July 1.

Word regarding the new law was received today by the local Civil Service Commission, from W. P. Capes, secretary of the State Mayors' Conference.

The fee is based on the minimum salary announced for the position. The fee on a position paying a salary of less than $1,200 a year, is 50 cents; from $1,200 to $2,000, the fee is a dollar; from a salary of $2,000 to $3,000 the fee is $3, and increases with each thousand dollars in salary.

The fee is imposed for the service rendered by the civil service board in passing on the application. The fees are paid in the local board to the general city fund.

If the application is not approved by the local board the amount of the fee is refunded to the applicant.

The same fee system applies to state civil service applications, according to the provisions of the new law.

Railroad Ordered To Install Flash Lights at Crossing

Albany, June 23.—(Special)—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has been ordered by the Public Service Commission to install automatic flashing signals at the North Plank road crossing in the town of Shawangunk, Ulster county.

The railroad company is required by the order to place the signals in operation not later than September 1, 1939. The commission closed an investigation regarding the St. Elmo crossing of the railroad on the grounds that additional protection is not required at that crossing. The action was taken by a four to one vote of the commission with Chairman Milo R. Maltbie and Commissioners George R. Lunn, Neal Brewster and Maurice C. Burritt voting in the affirmative and Commissioner George R. Van Namee in the negative.

Photographs presented as exhibits in the commission's investigation very clearly indicated a hazardous condition from the standpoint of highway travelers at the North Plank road crossing. While it was true that the views were taken no farther away from the crossing than 200 feet in both directions, the pictures, coupled with the testimony of witnesses, materially supported the contention that the crossing is dangerous. The fact that the freight trains operated on this branch of the railroad are long trains also supported the contention of those who petitioned for additional protection at the crossing. This is particularly true at night when the locomotive may be a considerable distance away from the crossing and the freight cars are still passing over the highway, in fact, barricading the highway without giving even the light indications which are given by passenger trains. Furthermore, the approach to the tracks from the west is particularly bad because highway travelers are on a descending four per cent grade to within 50 feet of the crossing.

The traffic count given by the railroad company's witness showing that 365 automobiles passed over the crossing in a 24-hour period, was taken early in March. It is reasonable to assume that in the spring, summer and fall there is more travel on this highway than is indicated by this traffic count.

The proceeding which the commission instituted as to the protection at this crossing was the result of a petition filed by the Wallkill Parent-Teacher Association, which asked for additional protection at both crossings. It was concluded that proof was established that conditions at the North Plank road crossing are such as to place it in the category of dangerous crossings requiring added protection.

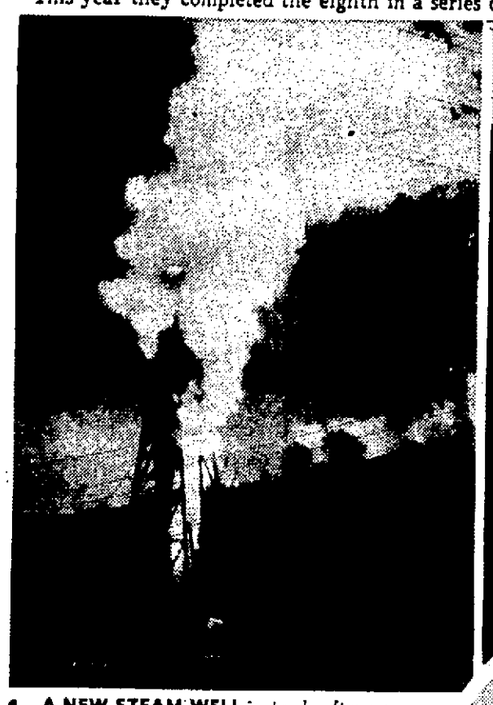
Italy Taps Volcanoes To Run Turbines

By The AP Feature Service

IN THE "Valley of Hell," a 20-square-mile area in Tuscany, Italians are harnessing volcanoes to provide electricity for railroads and factories in northern Italy. Two thousand men, living in perhaps the most dangerous land on earth, are working on the project—a vital one because Italy lacks coal. This year they completed the eighth in a series of turbine plants that draw their power from 300 natural and man-made steam wells, which sometimes go 1,000 feet deep and seldom run dry. By-products of the process are 8,000,000 tons of borax, carbonic acid and other chemicals annually. These photographs, made at the new plant, show how natural steam is put to work.



1. A NEW STEAM WELL is struck, after a year of drilling, with a roar heard a dozen miles away. Now it must be capped and steam drawn off.

2. LIVE STEAM heats water in these tanks and converts it into steam for turning turbines that provide electric power. Water itself has been condensed from natural steam and purified.

3. WORKING CLOTHES of people who play with volcanoes must protect them from heat and gas. This man's ready to cap well.

4. NEWEST ADDITION to Italy's "Valley of Hell" is this turbine plant at Larderello. Plants generate 32,800,000 kwh of electricity a month, about one-thirty-fifth of the national output. Production has been put on quantity basis only in last half dozen years.

Divorce Is Begun

Paris, June 22 (AP).—Prince Aage of Denmark, 52-year-old cousin of King Christian and a major in the French Foreign Legion, started divorce proceedings today. His wife is Mathilde Calvi Di Bergolo, whose family is linked by marriage with the Italian royal house. They were married January 17, 1914, at Turin.

Harry Goorew, a Saskatchewan woodman, was attacked by a bear he awakened from its winter sleep and killed it with an ax.

ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

Camp Wendy

Ten more days until Camp Wendy is formally opened. Now, one can almost hear the sounds of happy campers Many exciting plans are underway for the first encampment beginning July 2nd. As the Fourth of July falls in this two weeks period, there will be celebrations throughout the day, beginning at revelle. There will be an early morning service, a special flag raising ceremony and a fireworks display over the lake after dark.

A good old fashioned hay ride is another event which is only enjoyed by the campers during the first encampment. This will be taken some beautiful evening just at dusk. On this ride the campers may be heard a mile away making the hills resound with the many favorite camp songs.

The waterfront counselors are busy planning special swimming events. There will be a new rowboat at camp and this will have to be named and launched in proper nautical style, the first two weeks.

The new Adirondack lean-tos are finished and waiting for the first group of older girls to move in and name the different shacks. These will be exciting places to live—some face the Shawangunk Mountains and others are nestled in the woods under the spreading branches of huge maples. This was planned by the late Mr. Borden, father of Marion Borden, who left this property to the Ulster County Girl Scouts. Who will be the lucky girl to eat the first meal in the new dining tent perched high on a hill with a view stretching many miles?

Registrations are coming in rapidly. One unit is almost filled for both the first and second encampment. Applications should be sent in promptly to reserve the desired two weeks period.

Miracles Still Happen

Some 2,300 years ago peas were deposited in the tomb of Tutankhamen, the Egyptian king, as food on his journey. Behind the wall that seals the grave, which is watched over by the goddess Isis, the mummy of the ancient Egyptian ruler has been discovered in a costly sarcophagus. Alongside the mummy were the gifts bestowed on the illustrious king as everlasting sustenance for him on his journey. An English professor inspected in his own home the seemingly valueless and desiccated seeds of 3,300 years ago, and wondered if by chance they might be made to germinate. He gave a few of them to a skilled gardener, with instructions to plant them. And the result was an almost supernatural event, for these peas, 3,300 years old, sprouted and developed into magnificent plants on which an excellent crop matured. They have blue pods and green kernels.

$6.50 a Year

The easiest job in England, that of ringing the old curfew bell of Stogursey, West Somerset, has recently been filled. The bell is rung only twice a day, and the bell rope is so arranged that it hangs down into the bell ringer's bedroom. He need not even stir out of bed in order to carry out his duties. For his efforts he is given $6 50 a year, a joint of meat, about two tons of coal, free rent, and a garden.

Playhouse Does Well With 'Susan' As Year's Opener

The summer season at the Woodstock Playhouse opened Thursday evening with the presentation of Rachel Crothers' "Susan and God" playing to an audience which, although it did not fill the house, was a goodly representation of the interest shown in the summer plays. "Susan and God" will be repeated Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening's at 8:45 and each week a new play will be presented at the theatre.

A satire on fanatics who try to convert every one around them without searching their own faults, "Susan and God" indirectly pokes fun at the Oxford Group and those in the group who claim to be its followers without really understanding its methods of approach.

The scenes moved along at a rapid pace in three stage sets designed in the modern manner. Velma Royton was greeted upon her entrance with loud applause and received much acclaim for her part as Susan, which she interpreted in much the same manner as did Gertrude Lawrence on Broadway.

Donald McHenry, another friend of the Woodstock Theatre far surpassed himself in the role of Barrie Trexel, husband of Susan. Paul Hammond as Michael O'Hara and Dorothy Berry as Blossom Trexel also come in for their share of credit for the success of the opening play of the season.

Other supporting roles were taken by Edith Gresham, Elizabeth Malloch, Richard Bowler, Margaret Randall, Jean Barrere, Edward Ravel and Charlotte Hudson.

The play is seasoned with humor and action and was well received by the audience. The settings by A. E. Milliken are characteristically fine and the direction by Robert Elwyn sensitive and understanding.

Next week the Woodstock players will present "You Can't Take It With You."

Wygant School Graduation Held

Graduating exercises of the Emma Wygant School were held Thursday evening with 13 graduates receiving diplomas from Trustee John Watzka.

The awards were presented by Trustee Harry Darling and the class was presented by the principal, Thelma Metzger. Musical numbers by the school included the singing of "Funiculi-Funicula," "Sailing," "Aloha Oe" and the school song.

Honor graduates were Vera Wood, Ernest Wiebke, Donald Luby and Asa Rider. Others in the graduating class were: John Miller, Paul Chmura, Hallie Owens, Margaret Williams, Matilda Kish, Elizabeth Balogh, Jennie Qualtere, Carl Wiebke and Martin Saban.

Bone Surgery Goes Back to Ancients

Witch Doctors Practiced Art in Dark Ages.

TROY, N. Y. — Many medical practices considered by laymen as modern miracles were conceived and used extensively centuries ago, according to Dr. Kurt F. Leidecker of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Bone-setting is nearly "as old as civilized man," cutting of the skull was practiced by backward tribes before Columbus discovered America, and hypnosis is several hundred years old.

Trepanation, or cutting through the skull to relieve pressure or irritation of the brain, was an art of ancient witch doctors, Dr. Leidecker said.

"This operation was already in vogue in neolithic man, among the Incas and backward Indians, Polynesian and other tribes," he explained. "The malady, however, whether insanity or a headache, was identified with evil spirits, and the surgical opening of the skull or the incision of the scalp—with subsequent cauterization—was supposed to allow evil spirits to escape.

"Bone-setting is an art almost as old as civilized man. Practiced in Egypt about 4,500 years ago with sufficient frequency that we are able to attest to it by excavations, it implies at least a primitive knowledge of bony and cartilaginous regeneration.

Not only direct medical practices, but also community disease preventive work and social measures now being discussed in congress and state legislatures as revolutionary social advances, are 2,000 years old, according to Dr. Leidecker.

"Prophylactics in medicine, hygiene, diet, clearance of slum districts, sanitary, prevention of crime—all these were practiced 2,000 years ago in India," he said.

"The utilization of herbs and animal substances for relief or cure go back into hoary antiquity.

"The old Hindu physician applied mental suggestion much the same as the modern psychiatrist does."

A-Men Organized to War On Insects and Disease

WASHINGTON.—Little bug, you better watch out or the "A-man" will get you!

The agriculture department has organized a staff of animal, insect and plant detectives along the lines of the famous justice department's "G-man" squad.

The work is under the direction of three agriculture department bureaus—biological survey for animals and birds, entomology for insects and plant quarantine for plant diseases.

These pests cause damage of billions of dollars a year, more than human criminals. Some of them, such as mountain lion, have been sought as murderers. Wolves "public enemy No. 1" of the animal world, kill live stock.

Grasshoppers are the "public enemy No. 1" among insect pests. Others are Mormon crickets, white fringe beetles, Japanese beetles, pink boll worms, cotton boll weevils, and gypsy moths. Plant diseases include Dutch elm disease, white pine rust and black stem rust.

The most recent case solved by the bureau of biological survey was that of the ground mole, accused by gardeners with eating valuable bulbs and underground parts of plants.

The bureau absolved the mole of actually committing any crime, but found he was "an accessory before the fact."

"The myriad tunnels dug by the mole, however, often become runways for the actual criminal, the small, short-tailed pine mice, or, in some instances, the field, or meadow mice," the bureau said.

Emerson's 'Old Manse' to Be Preserved as Shrine

CONCORD, MASS. — The Old Manse, near the famous Concord battleground, is to be preserved as a public shrine.

The home of Ralph Waldo Emerson and for a time of Nathaniel Hawthorne, is to be purchased by the trustees of public reservations.

The plan is to have the old manse open to the public from May 1 to October 1 each year.

The house is best known through Hawthorne's "Moses From an Old Manse," written while he spent his honeymoon there. Also it is the ancestral home of Emerson and part of the scene of the historic battle of Concord at Old North Bridge, on April 19, 1775, where the first shot of the American Revolution was fired.

The house was built in 1789 by Reverend William Emerson, who watched the bridge battle from his window.

Gum-Chewing Is Found To Have Its Advantages

NEW YORK.—Confidential memo to bosses: If your stenographer's gum-chewing gets on your nerves, forget it; she's only piling up more energy for her job. Prof. Harry L. Hollingsworth of the psychology department of Columbia college reported that chewing on gum, pencils, rubber bands, paper clips, toothpicks and pipestems causes the masticators to drop other nervous habits like foottapping and shuffling about and releases the energy for other purposes.

Telephones installed in operators' cabs of overhead cranes used in the warehouse of a lumber company have speeded up handling of orders. From his desk the shipping clerk can call a crane operator to give him instructions regardless of where the crane is working.

Kiwanis Holds 'Aviation Day'

Aviation day was observed by Kingston Kiwanis Thursday when the meeting was turned over to the interest of this growing business. Ray W. Garraghan as chairman of the program presented several local pilots and also visiting pilots and guests interested in aviation. Mr. Garraghan was compelled to make apologies for three prominent pilots who had promised to visit Kingston by plane but who were unable to land at the local airport and flew on to Poughkeepsie or back to Newark and from there sent their regrets.

Mr. Garraghan in his introductory talk said that he regretted the inability of these men to visit Kingston but flying large planes they had looked down on Kingston for a suitable airport and finding none had been compelled to pass on. He urged that unless Kingston wanted to go back to "old Sawkill or Jockey Hill days" some concern should be taken by the city in procuring and supporting a landing field for aircraft.

Charles Froesch, chief engineer for Eastern Air Lines, Associate Fellow Institute of Aeronautical Sciences and a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, was the guest speaker. Mr. Froesch began the designing and construction of aeroplanes in 1912 and is one of the outstanding engineers of the country today. He outlined the high spots of flying today and told of the commercial planes of the future which will fly non-stop from coast to coast with perhaps 200 passengers. He predicted that the plane of the future probably will be diesel powered.

Among the local aviators presented by Mr. Garraghan was Leo Boice, Jack Loughran, Orlando Ingalls, Earl Newbery, James E. Gumael, Jr., A. Van Gelder. Milton Walker, who owns the property where the Kingston Airport is located was also introduced as the man who had made local aviation activities possible through the donation of the tract of land. Mr. Garraghan said that Mr. Walker had continued to pay high taxes on the property and received no income from the land and he estimated that since aviation came to the Walker property he had donated land and service worth $20,000 to the cause.

Mrs. Harold S. Clemens of Balmville, who flew from Newburgh in her plane, was presented as the only woman representative of the flying fraternity present. Dr. F. H. Harrington and Lloyd O. Yost of Middletown, who also flew in for the meeting, were introduced.

Presented as Kingston's "oldest pilot" in point of services was Paul Swanson. Others presented were Dick Kaufman, proprietor of the Kingston Airport and a graduate instructor of the Boeing School in California, Peter Palen, Bert Stroock, Lee Ward, all pilots, and Ben H. Adams, who is also an aviation pilot-instructor.

Other guests present were D. L. Shirley, Joseph H. Mayon, Harvey Burtnett, A. L. Colligan, E. E. Fessenden, E. O. Demarest, Ward E. Brigham, Ed Shults and Emil G. Boessneck, Jr.

Mr. Froesch, who heads the second largest air transport service in the country today, Eastern Air Lines, as its chief engineer, told of the rapid growth of aviation in the past few years and of the possibilities of the future. Today aviation is doing things which were beyond belief a few years ago. He said the United States with its great distances was the ideal country for air transportation. No country or combination of countries is doing for commercial aviation what the United States is doing. This is due to the necessity of covering great distances in a short period of time and he said the United States is flying per day over 11 per cent more passenger miles and carrying over 400 per cent more express than 13 years ago and he predicted for the future even more rapid strides as the public accepts air travel. Passenger traffic has increased 35 per cent over a year ago.

As to safety he decried the publicity given any air accident in which perhaps fewer deaths took place than in some unnoticed land vehicle accident. As to safety he said a person might fly from New York to California and back the next day and continue to do so for ten years before there was a chance of an accident. Counting time and cost of air travel about the same as rail and in business where time is a factor, air travel is a great money saver.

Speaking of the present airliners he told of the development of the commercial type and predicted that within a few years planes could carry 200 passengers and fly non-stop from coast to coast. He referred to his own travels when in one year he made 17 round coast to coast trips and stated that had these trips been made by train they would have taken one and one-half months. Within two or three years a ship now being developed to carry over 40 passengers would cruise at 180 miles an hour from coast to coast. He told of a huge bomber being developed which will weigh from 135,000 to 140,000 pounds, with a range of 6,000 miles and carrying 3,000 pounds of armament.

Mr. Froesch urged the planning for an airfield and said that the airport is to the future of aviation what the modern highway is to the car. He urged that every city make plans for a proper and suitable airfield.

Mr. Garraghan expressed his regret that Jack Squires of Boston, Bud Gillies and Ted Husing of New York has been unable to land their large planes at Kingston but told the Kiwanians that there would be planes at the airport to take any Kiwanian who desired to take a trip after the close of the meeting.

Dick Kaufman, of the Kingston Airport, spoke briefly regarding local aviation and asked the cooperation of all Kiwanians in development of the airport.

President Ed Huben reported he and Pratt Boice had attended the Boston convention.

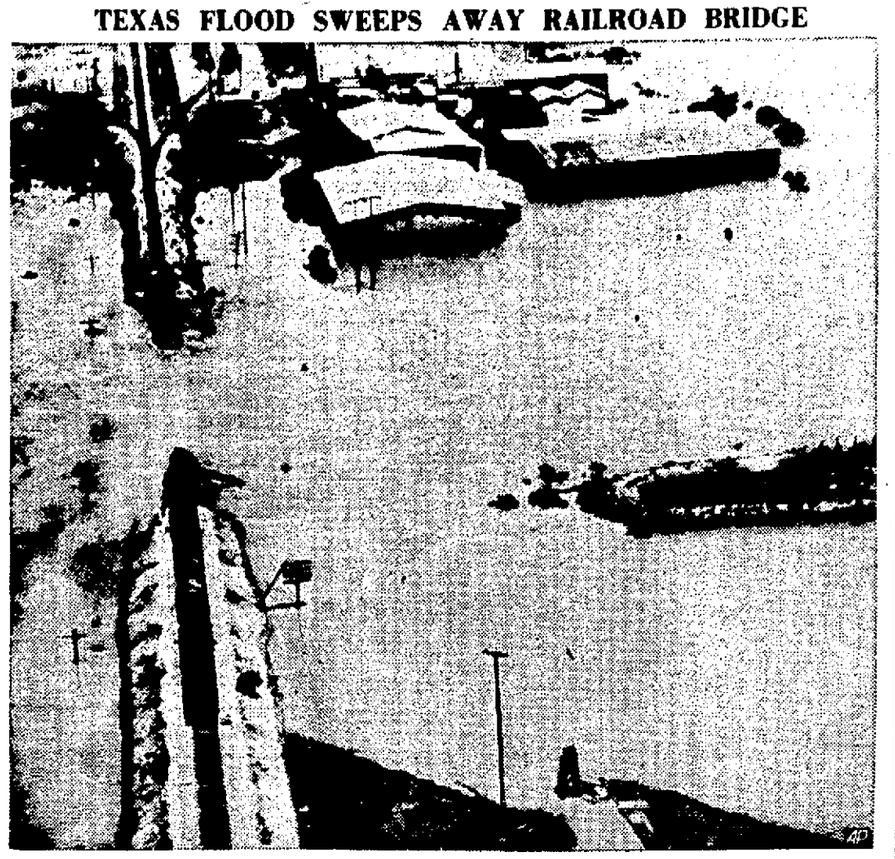
TEXAS FLOOD SWEEPS AWAY RAILROAD BRIDGE



Only a few minutes before a flood carried away this bridge at Colorado City, Texas, a Texas and Pacific train was stopped by trainmen who noticed the water had risen dangerously high. Eight oil cars shunted onto the bridge in an attempt to give it stability, plunged into the swollen Colorado river when the bridge was carried away. Other cars stand at the brink. One man died and 200 families were driven from their homes in the flood.

The 1937-38 drop in accidental deaths in the U. S. was the greatest ever recorded in a single year, a reduction of 11,000.

Four Persons Drown As Auto Jumps Curve

Sylvan Beach, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Four persons drowned in Fish Creek about a mile from this Oneida Lake resort early today when their automobile failed to make a curve, left the road, and overturned in the water.

The dead, all of Rome, N. Y., were identified by state police as Zola Mason, 16; her uncles, Raymond Mason, 30, and George Mason, 23, and John Korman, 23.

Police recovered the bodies of the young girl and the uncles from the car in six feet of water within a half hour, but dragged the creek nearly five hours before finding Korman's body. It was 15 feet from the car in about 15 feet of water.

Police said Korman borrowed the machine from a friend yesterday.

Grunies, Boiceville Play Nine-Inning Thriller For Tie in City League, 2-2

With Jackie Strubel and Red Lane hooking up in a brilliant mound duel, Grunenwalds and Boiceville struggled through nine thrill-packed innings to a 2-2 standstill in the season's first extra-inning classic, last night of the City League.

Strubel, relieving the ancient Les Caunitz with two outs in the first, flipped sensational ball. Allowing but three scattered bingles in nine frames, the Bakerboys No. 1 hurler throttled the Rangers in a copyrighted performance. Lane twirled a six-hitter for the Knappmen. Three hits were of the scratch variety.

Mac Tiano sent the contest into extra innings with a sparkling grab of Lamb's looping liner in short right center in the seventh. With Smedes on second and two game, Lamb blooped a short fly behind second. Tiano, Colonials ace, came in fast to make a lunging stab on the dead run, robbing Lamb of a base knock.

Ray Schneider climaxed the hectic action that reigned supreme in last night's four-star thriller in the ninth. Gil Kelder poled a terrific clout into the right field corner and legged it around to third. Maestro Weiss inserted Big Joe Mahar for Lindhurst. Mahar topped a slow roller towards third and Schneider flitted in fast to make a nifty scoop nailing Kelder cold at the plate via Nyulassy.

Boiceville found the range for two markers in the opening frame. Al Nussbaum's walk, Hughes' bingle, and long lefts by Davis and Mac Tiano shoved over twin tallies on Caunitz. Strubel hustled in from the bull-pen relieving Caunitz and after being touched for a single by Bush, dished up only two hits in eight frames.

Grunies Tie Count

Vince Smedes, who had a banner night with a trio of hits and stolen bases, scratched a hit off Nussbaum's mitt and pilfered second. Lane, attempting to pick the tantalizing Smedes off second, heaved into center field as Vince took third. Strubel helped his cause by cracking a hit to right field scoring the Grunies centerfielder.

Purvis reached on Bob Nussbaum's bungle to start the sixth. Pilfering second Purvis injured his leg and Sleight ran home when Buddy Hughes heaved wildly past Bush to knot the count

Boiceville Threatens

Lou Knapp's fighting crew threatened in the extra innings but sensational defensive support and Strubel's "clutch hurling" staved off defeat. With one down, Davis bingled, took second and lit out for third on Tiano's high fly to Minasian. Gavis, taking Minasian's relay, cut Davis down at third for a double-ply killing.

Strubel hit the heights in the ninth. After Bush and Schneider flied out, successive free tickets to North, Nyulassy and Lane filled the sacks. With the bleacherites setting up a terrific din, Dulin raced far back to snare Bob Nussbaum's twisting foul fly near the right field bleachers.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

That $185,000 lemon Philip K. Wrigley purchased last year for his sweet-toothed Chicago Cubs is beginning to ripen into a mighty juicy fruit and possibly the only reason Wrigley has checked his chuckles this long is to make sure his laugh is last.

At a time when the rest of Chicago's vaunted pitching staff has splattered all over the National League, Jerome Herman Dean has confounded his critics by winning four games without a setback.

He held the Boston Bees to six hits yesterday as the Bruins won, 7-1. They haven't been defeated in six games, although tied Monday, and if this seems a puny performance compared with the strings of the Reds, or Giants, or Cardinals, it nevertheless is the Cubs' longest undefeated stretch of the season.

Dean started it Sunday and gave it some moral (or oral) support during the week by way of showing that he is rounding into his old form as a pop-off, too.

The Cubs gave Ole Diz plenty of help at the plate yesterday, presenting him a five-run start in the second inning during which Augie Galan hit a home run with the bases loaded. He nursed this lead well, losing a shutout when the Bees bunched half of their hits in the fifth frame.

Creep Up

The Champions closed the gap between them and the third-place New York Giants to half a game as the Terrible Terrymen lost a rainy melee at Pittsburgh, 9-8. The Pirates piled up a six-run lead in the first three innings and then squandered it. But with two out and one on in the ninth Catcher Ray Mueller and Pitcher Joe Bowman doubled successively to win the game. Rain delayed the contest for an hour and five minutes in the second inning and fell again during the uprising in the ninth.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals spotted the Phillies five runs in the first four innings and then roused themselves to win 11-5. Mort Cooper got most of the credit for the victory, because he pitched five scoreless innings in relieving Lon Warneke and made three hits in three times at bat.

Cincinnatti and Brooklyn were idle.

Rookie's 8th Win

The New York Yankees routed the Chicago White Sox again, 6-1, to sweep their three-game series and give Rookie Atley Donald his eighth victory without defeat. The American League rulers got only one more hit than the eight Donald permitted the Sox, but as usual spotted them in the right places. George Selkirk hit his 11th homer.

Jack Wilson subdued the St. Louis Browns on six hits as the Boston Red Sox slammed out a 7-3 victory. Two runs in the first inning put Wilson in front and he stayed there.

Athletics Victors

The Philadelphia Athletics overcame the vaunted Detroit power attack to win 6-5. Three home runs helped the Tigers to take a four-run lead in the first four innings, but the A's caught up in the eighth when Catcher Frank Hayes singled with the bases loaded, and Pinchhitter Chubby Dean won the same in the ninth on a sacrifice fly with the sacks again filled.

The Washington Senators claimed the same kind of a game from the Cleveland Indians, 8-5. The Tribe got 14 hits, including two home runs, off Harry Kelley, who also was harrassed by four errors. But the Nats knitted their 11 blows at the proper intervals.

Two Softball Games Carded At Williams Lake on Sunday, Girls Start Contest at 1:30

Softball games will be on the sports card at Williams Lake in Rosendale every Sunday in the season, beginning this Sunday when the Williams Lake team, managed by Artie Kaplan, one of the instigators of softball in this city, will play the Hercules Powder aggregation. A preliminary girls' game between the Williams Lake Bathing Beauties and the Flashes, a fast moving girls' team from Hudson, will be called at 1:30.

Artie Kaplan has on his roster a number of well known names in softball circles. Johnny Snyder will toss them up from the mound and Whitie Myers will be on the receiving end. George Flemming at first, Frankie Brooks at second, Bud Zoller at short, and Red Newell at third form a fast moving infield. Eddie Marks, Pewee Wolfe, Eddie Bock and Ed Demski complete the outfield.

The Hercules line-up next Sunday will include Chet Krom, Red McDermitt, Kennedy and others under Speed Avery.

The feature player on the Williams Lake girls team is Rose Marie Tremper, one of the most outstanding girl athletes in Kingston. The other girls on the team are Betty Glass, Dot Gillen, Mary Butler, Lee Kegler, Dot Bilyou, Rose Parslow and others.

Columbia Captains

The election of Columbia University 1940 captains in two sports has been announced by Reynolds Benson, athletics manager. Henry Remmer, '40, captain and No. 4 of the varsity eight which rowed at Poughkeepsie last Saturday, was re-elected by his mates to lead the Lions on the water next spring. John E. Anderson, '40, of Amityville, L. I., veteran high jumper, will captain in the varsity track team.

Indies Make Clean Sweep of Twi-Loop First Half Prizes

He'll Meet Louis June 28

TONY GALENTO

Louis-Galento Fight May Be Wildest Since Dempsey-Firpo

Jim Braddock, former heavyweight boxing champion, after watching Tony Galento train yesterday at Madame Bey's camp in the New Jersey hills said that the Newark Nightstick really has a chance against Joe Louis, the present king of the heavyweights.

"Tony's got a swell chance if he fights Louis like he fought today," said Jim, who had the negro on the floor before losing the title to him in Chicago. "I mean it. Joe doesn't like that kind of fighting, and he hasn't been looking good lately. I'm convinced Tony isn't going to be scared or nervous when he goes in that ring."

Gayle Talbot, Associated Press sports writer, who talked with Braddock, and agreed with him about Galento's chances, wrote: "Jim really was impressed, and not for publicity purposes. He seemed reluctant to express such an unpopular opinion."

Speaking for himself, Talbot said:

"I'm going to have to stay away from Tony Galento's training camp before I catch myself picking the big palooka to knock out Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship next Wednesday night.

"There's something about the place that gets a man, and it isn't necessarily Madame Bey's home cooking. Maybe it's the heady air of the New Jersey hills. But I'll swear that the Galento of today, five days before the fight, looks like a mean proposition to face in a small ring.

In Good Shape

"Frankly, he has worked himself into finer condition than any of the local critics thought possible. That beer stomach of his has almost disappeared, and it is place is only a hard bulge that seems to fit in with the rest of his strange physique. Yesterday he fought four tough rounds without blowing, and he was throwing punches every second of the time.

"Don't get me wrong. Louis still is a 1-to-9 favorite, and those odds probably are about right. The negro is a great champion by any measure and is the only sane choice in this scrap. But I'm beginning to suspect the thing is not cut-and-dried, and that the crowd is likely to get its money's worth.

"While it lasts, it might produce the wildest, craziest bit of action seen in a ring since Dempsey and Firpo went beserk under the lights."

Canzoneri a Big Draw at Po'keepsie

Barney Williams, promoter of the Woodcliff Park boxing bouts, today reported a heavy ticket sale for his June 27 feature between Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, and Joe De Jesus of Brooklyn.

"The old Marlborough Squire seems to have a magnetic appeal with boxing fans hereabouts," said Barney, informing a sports writer that one Marlborough party had ordered 250 reserved seats.

In supporting bouts two Kingston scrappers, Jess Caprotti and his brother, Pete, fighting under the name of Cappy, will box at Poughkeepsie. Jess, making his first start as a professional, will meet Pete Dubaldi, the Newburgh lightweight who also boxed in Kingston as an amateur.

Canzoneri's opponent was Irish Ambrose when he was signed for Woodcliff, but a switch to De Jesus was made after Logan lost a bout the other night.

The full card:

Tony Canzoneri, Marlborough, former world lightweight champion, vs. Joe De Jesus, Brooklyn, eight rounds.

Tommy Christy, Bronx, vs. Gerard De Lia, Yonkers, six rounds.

Jose Bosara, Porto Rico, vs. Bob Perry, Brooklyn, six rounds.

Joe Iannotti, Bronx, vs. Patsy Celli, Philadelphia, six rounds.

Pete Cappy, Kingston, vs. Patsy Pasca, New York, four rounds.

Jess Caprotti, Kingston, vs. Pete Dubaldi, Newburgh, four rounds.

JEEPERS CREEPERS, WHERE DID YOU GET THOSE PEEPERS?

Dr. William Walker, physician of the New York State Boxing Commission, examines Joe Louis' eyes at the latter's training camp as part of his physical checkup of the heavyweight champion who faces Tony Galento in a title bout in New York June 28. He pronounced the Brown Bomber physically prime for the match. Louis' training camp is located near Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Local Trackmen Compete In Adirondack Amateur Meet Upstate on Saturday

The Kingston Recreations, highly rated track squad sponsored by the department of recreation, will travel to Saratoga Springs tomorrow to take part in the Adirondack Division Track and Field Championships of the A. A. U.

Competing against stellar track material at the General Electric meet in Schenectady last week, the local track and field men made an unusually fine showing, running up a total of 17 points, only five points less than the Carver A. C., winning team at the meet.

The Kingston Recreations have been working out daily under the direction of Ben Bell, coach of the local squad, at the new Municipal Stadium. When seen this morning Bell stated that his men were in fine shape for tomorrow's meet, and despite the fact that some of the best runners in the state will be competing at Saratoga, he is expecting the local men to make a good showing.

Weiner The Ace

Leading the local squad tomorrow will be Mike Weiner, former high school track captain, and point-getter in three events at last week's meet. Weiner will be entered in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, and the running broad jump.

Jean Wiren, former record setter in DUSO track competition, has been working hard during the past week to perfect his start in the 440-yard event. Getting off to a slow start in this event last week brought the local ace down to a fourth place. He is expected to show up in his former style tomorrow.

Good High Jumpers

Shermie Bethune and Don Clark will represent the locals in the high jumping event. Bethune is expected to clear six feet, two inches at tomorrow's meet, and Don Clark is expected to be right up behind him.

Jesse Shultis, plucky distance man, will try for a place in both of the long distance events, the mile and two mile runs, if conditions are favorable. In the half-mile event Kingston will enter Joe Belrack and Joe Hart, both fine runners who were unable to compete last week because of illness.

A new addition to the local squad during the week was Hart Snyder, Syracuse University distance runner, who will be entered in the two-mile event.

Skeets Goffredi in the pole vault, and Cogwell Stewart in the 100-yard dash, together with several others, will complete the Recreations' entries in tomorrow's meet.

New York state's lettuce industry is coming back because of producers' success with the iceberg type, and supplies of home-grown lettuce are now appearing on the market, both in New York city and in upstate New York. Until recent years most of the head lettuce on local markets came from California.

Port Ewen Plays Ridgers Sunday

The Stone Ridge Firemen will try to hit their winning stride again Sunday after their first loss of the season last week against the Staanton nine. The firemen will cross bats with Port Ewen at Fairview Park starting at 2:30. The battery for Stone Ridge will be Davis and Stokes.

Batting averages measure mainly your strength in swinging the bat, plus keen eyesight. In some cases the feet get into the arithmetic, too. James Roberson Brown, St. Louis Cardinals' shortstop and leadoff man, hit .241 for Rochester in 1935 and .309 for the same Red Wings in 1936. The difference was mainly due to fast footwork. In 1935 J. Roberson was right-hand hitter. The next year he became a switch hitter, so that when a right-hander was pitching for the opposition, his lefthand hitting position gave him about three steps start for first base and a 68-point bulge in his batting average.

Hard Competition For Byron Nelson

Scranton, Pa., June 23 (AP)—Seeking his first major golf title since he won the National Open, Byron Nelson, of Reading, Pa., was favored today as he and 87 others teed off in the first annual $5,000 Anthracite Open.

Nelson will have plenty of competition in the three-day 72-hole medal tourney over the par 70 Scranton Country Club course.

Ralph Guldahl, Jimmy Thomson, Denny Shute, Sam Snead, Ed. Dudley, Henry Picard, Jimmy Hines, Leo Diegel, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Gene Kunes, Lloyd Mangrum, and Ted Turner are among the top-flight golfers seeking the $1,200 first prize.

KELLY'S CORNER • By JOE KELLY

Jack Dempsey 44 Tomorrow— Dizzy Dean's First Shoes

Tomorrow, June 24, is Jack Dempsey's birthday. ... He was born in 1895, which makes the old Manassa Mauler 44. ... 13 amateur drivers, three of them women, will compete for the $1,300 in the inaugural Goshen Club trot at Historic track, July 4. ... The lady drivers are Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, New York, and Mrs. E. T. Gerry and Mrs. Ogden Phipps, both of Westbury, L. I. ... Bill Isreal, coach of the girls softball team representing Williams Lake, has his fingers crossed for that Sunday game. ... We've heard two other, and richer, American League clubs will gladly sign Jimmy Dykes to a long-term contract whenever he quits the White Sox. ... When a feeler was sent to him last year, Jimmy refused. ... Benny Bell is all agog over his track team's trip to Saratoga tomorrow to compete in the A.A.U. meet. ... That wasn't lightning at the municipal stadium track last evening as the recreation trackmen worked out. ... All that flashing came from those "out loud" trunks worn by Jean Wiren and Mike Weiner. ... They're green. .... The reason the Braddock-Farr London fight fizzled is because the British board of boxing control checked on Joe Gould handling both boxers.

Galento backers are getting 9-1 on Broadway in New York. . . . But if you insist on Louis you must put up 11 to 1. . . . In Jersey, Louis is 1 to 6 with plenty of greens to be had around Newark and the several Oranges. . . . Jim Braddock will get $1,500 for refereeing Krieger-Hostak in Seattle, June 27. . . . His plans are flying to Yakima in time to referee a baseball game and then start to New York for the Louis-Galento scramble. . . . Joe DiMaggio bugles that the White Sox are the best and most merciless boys in the majors. . . . Carlie Husta went an extra round at the Wiltwyck golf course yesterday. . . . No wonder the Morgan softballers lost last night. . . . "If Jimmy knew about my breaking training regulations this way he'd bawl me out," said the ex-Colonial basketballer. . . . We've heard that Dizzy Dean never wore a pair of shoes until he joined the army in 1927. . . . The Niagara Falls Gazette tells how the local ball club will meet the fight competition: "As the heavyweight fight between Joe Louis and Tony Galento is scheduled for June 28, arrangements are being made to halt the game for two or three minutes so the spectators may listen to the blow-by-blow account of the affair from the ringside. . . . Following the knockout the game will proceed."

Beat Nazis

London (AP)—A German Jew has found a new way of defeating the Nazi currency regulations—to the tune of $280,000. A British lawyer called to Berlin to take details of British stock certificates, watched astounded as his client threw them on the fire. After reaching England the refugee had the lawyer file a sworn statement as to the destruction of the certificates. Under British law this enabled him to obtain the necessary duplicates—at a cost of around $7.20.

Hasbrouck Park Program at 7 P. M.

The Department of Recreation will hold its initial Community Night program of the season tonight at Hasbrouck Park when Mayor C. J. Heiselman will formally open the season of supervised play on the local playgrounds.

The opening feature of tonight's program, at 7 p. m., will be the play-off contest in a three game series between the Royalettes and the Merchant Lassies, two leading women's softball contingents of the city.

Following the athletic feature of the program the activities will be moved to the platform where the opening ceremonies will take place. Members of the Mayor's Advisory Recreation Committee will be introduced, as will members of the playground staff for the coming season.

The program will close with five reels of talking pictures which will be shown by Henry Millonig, Jr.

During the past two seasons the Community Night programs have become very popular with the large number of local people who follow the playground activities. These programs are presented one evening each week at most of the local supervised areas.

Valuable Watch Displayed

Richard Meyer has on display in the window of his jewelry store at 40 John street a man's wrist watch made by Longines. Around the circular band of the face are 10 diamonds. The watch will be on display today and Saturday. The cost of the watch, which was secured on special order, was more than $1,000.

Tests show that more than 75 per cent of the pressure gauges in use on potato spray rigs are inaccurate; many read from 100 to 200 pounds too high. This means a high gauge reading and relatively low pressure at the nozzles.

COMMAND—Battleships of the battle force of the U. S. navy are now under command of Vice Admiral Charles P. Snyder (above), who succeeds Vice Admiral John Greenslade.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS—Shapely Jackie Gladney, who combines archery form with diving skill, is suspended in midair at the Seaside Heights, N. J., pool, thanks to fast camera speed. It looks so easy, done by this aquatic Diana.

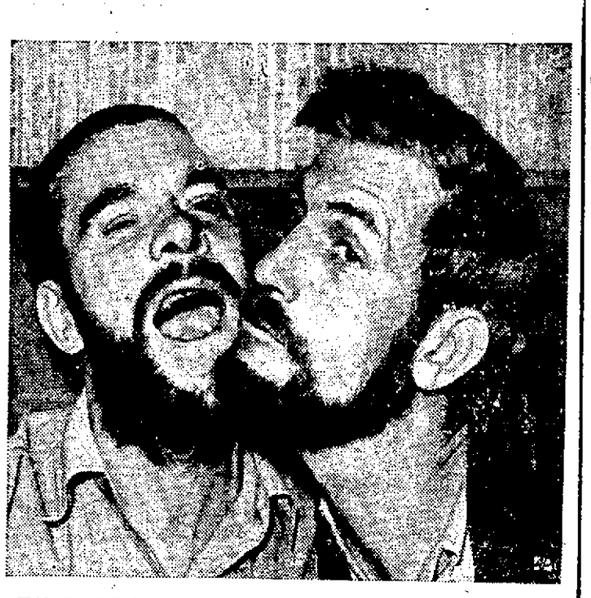
FOOT FORWARD—What the next step will be in English-Russian relations, observers wonder as William Strang (above), of British foreign office, continues discussions with Moscow statesmen. Strang, shown in his garden, bore terms of England's pact proposals to Soviets.

POLITICAL TURMOIL—When King Carol (left) opened new Fascist-patterned, non-party parliament designed, he says, to end political turmoil, he declared "We want peace but with respect for independence of Rumania." Also leaving parliament are Prince Michael and Premier Calinescu (black monocle). The latter and king were both targets of recent assassination plot.

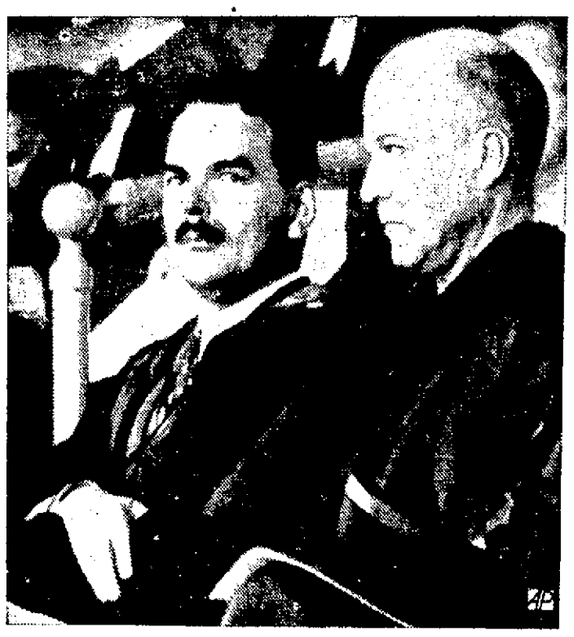
NEW STAMP—Concern over a falling birthrate has led France to issue two new stamps, one of which is shown. It is to stimulate interest in babies. This 70-centime stamp has a surcharge of 80 centimes, the profits to go to an alliance for increasing the population.

...MEETS A BODY COMIN' THROUGH THE RYE'—Almost within a stone's throw of the nation's capital, this pastoral scene shows farmers harvesting their early rye. The Lincoln memorial would be across the Potomac in the background.

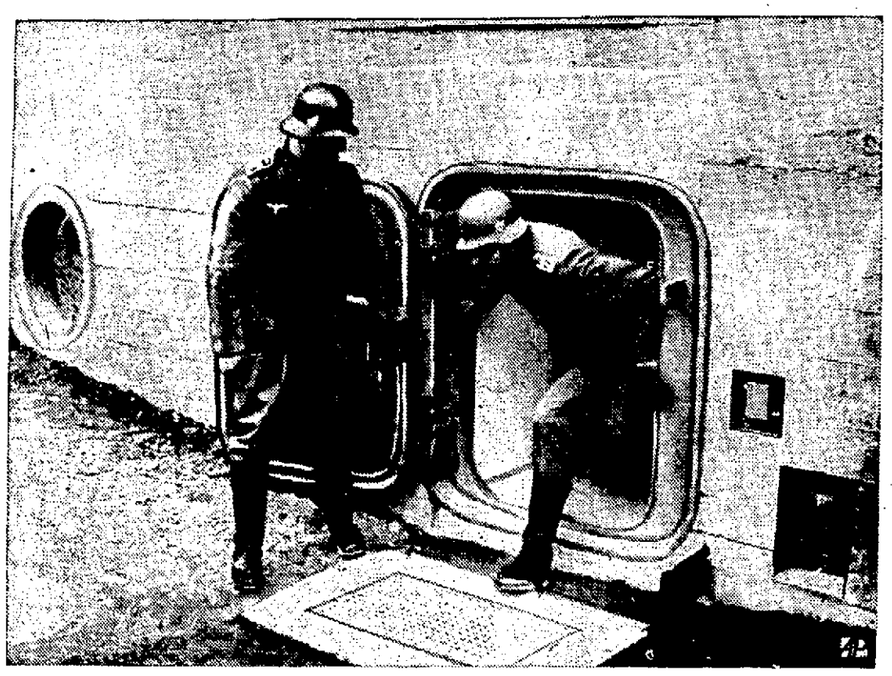
1 IN 5—Once every five years the Nolina lily blooms, and this one is timed for the San Diego, Cal., county fair July 1-4. Barbara Blanc holds a bloom.



TWO OF THE BRUSH BOYS—To help celebrate Jersey county's centennial in Illinois, the men have been letting their beards grow since May 1, and here's Harold Murray and Ralph Walker (right) testing beards for toughness.



PENNY FOR THOUGHTS?—Grave-faced William Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to France, and Thomas E. Dewey (left), N. Y. district attorney, sat together at Dartmouth college commencement. There, honorary doctor of laws degrees were given the Democrat-diplomat who's close to F.D.R. and the Republican who may be G.O.P. standard-bearer in the 1940 presidential race.



MEMO TO OTHER NATIONS—From Berlin comes this photo of Germany's bristling Limes line which guards that country's western frontier and faces France's Maginot line. Soldiers are emerging from an artillery bunker well stocked with food and ammunition. Nazi generals have called the Limes line, sometimes named Siegfried, the "most formidable in world."

GOING NATIVE—Beautiful Crown Princess Marie Jose donned a frilly native costume when she and husband, Crown Prince Umberto of Italy, visited Sardinia, Italian island. Prince Umberto, reportedly, is none too fond of Fascism.

PANDA—So popular is giant panda at London zoo that Rosemary Andree wears a likeness of the rare beast on her swim suit.

ONE HEAD WAS BETTER THAN TWO—Admiringly Don and Buck Chapoton observe the swift technique of a Galveston melon fan who, lone-handed, got more done than they did.

REMEMBER MAXIE?—A year after his match with Joe Louis, which mercifully ended for him in the first round, Max Schmeling trains at Stuttgart, Germany, for a bout with Adolf Heuser. Above, Max waits for a sparring partner while his manager, Rothenburg, stands nearby. In June, 1938, Louis beat Schmeling, to even up score for that 1936 Louis defeat in Round 12.

Much Improved

Judge Frederick G. Traver was reported at the Kingston Hospital as much improved today following an operation performed Thursday morning.

After midnight, high prices seem reasonable.

Radio Station to Be Built in July

The Federal Communications Commission in its order released Wednesday and which was received by the Kingston Broadcasting Corporation this morning stated that "upon consideration of the application, the documents submitted therewith and the evidence secured at hearing thereon; and the commission being fully advised in the matter and having determined that the granting of the application will serve public interest convenience and necessity; it is ordered, that the above entitled application be, and it is hereby, granted."

At the hearing held in Washington last February Mayor C. J. Heiselman comprehensively stated how the station would be used to broadcast the work of the various city departments; Fred H. Stang, clerk of the Board of Supervisors, told of the programs planned by the board; Alfred Kurdt, supervisor of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, outlined the broad agricultural policy of the station and the manner in which it would be presented; Mrs. H. P. Van Wagenen in charge of women's programs for the station explained how women's activities throughout the country would be correlated and broadcast. John R. McKenna, president of the Kingston Broadcasting Corporation, and C. Ray Everett, commercial director, gave pertinent information relating to the corporation.

Mr. McKenna stated this morning that construction of the station would commence early in July. He expects to have the station on the air operating on its regular daytime schedule before the first of September.

The broadcasting studios will be located in the Governor Clinton Hotel and will consist of a large studio, a small studio control room and offices. Provision will be made to accommodate a studio audience.

The exact location of the transmitter station will be determined by means of an electrical survey and the site that puts out the strongest signal throughout the county will be used. The quality and clarity of the local broadcast station, which is conservatively expected to cover well a 20-mile radius, will be as good as the largest stations in the country as the latest type of RCA high fidelity equipment will be used, it is claimed.

Mr. McKenna said that he expects to have the program staff of the station on the job immediately after completing the studios so that auditions may be held and local talent developed for the station's programs.

Family Paper Bill in U. S. Averages $40 Annually

WASHINGTON. — The average American family uses more than half a ton of paper costing about $40 in a year, economists of the forest service estimate.

United States consumption of paper in 1937 was shown to be nearly 16,000,000 tons—more than half of the paper produced in the world—and an all-time record for any nation.

Of the 246 pounds of paper used by the average person, about 100 pounds represents newspapers, books and writing paper. The remainder is used as cartons, building boards, wrapping papers and numerous miscellaneous products. Four-fifths of the paper consumed is produced in this country and most of the rest was imported from Canada.

Lad Is Mailman for Day; Parents' Love Notes Used

ARLINGTON, MASS.—Sonny went rummaging in the attic and stumbled upon several bundles of letters, carefully tied with red ribbons.

Sonny decided to be the town postman, at least for a day. Tossing the mail in his daddy's hunting bag, the four-year-old protege of Jim Farley made the rounds of the neighborhood. To people not very friendly with his daddy and mamma, Sonny left the "fattest" letters. To people who were cross to his newly devised methods of delivery, Sonny left two letters.

Daddy and mamma are still burning and hope to do the same with their courtship letters, if they are returned.

World's Fair visitors who have been through the Chinese Lama Temple, can be frequently identified elsewhere on the fair grounds, still carrying their joss stick.

Granite Slab May Be Dare Marker

spurred a search for the latter and the second stone, unearthed recently, also found its way to Brenau.

The Brenau president emphasized that the college makes no claims for the stones but is so impressed by their potential value to history that excavations will be undertaken soon in the vicinity where the second was found. The discovery of human remains, Dr. Pearce pointed out, would be another step in welding a hitherto missing link in the early history of America.

The carving of both stones is in what appears to be Elizabethan characters. On one side of the last-discovered one appears the following:

"Heyrelaeth Ananias Dare & Virginia.

"Father, salvage murther al save seaven.

"Names wr'ten heyr. Mai God hav mercye.

"Eleanor Dare 1591."

On the opposite side are 15 names:

"Sydor Boane Wican Birce Polle.

"Carewe Boeman Spagne Tuckers.

"Bolitoe Smythe Sakeres.

"Holborn Winget Stoate."

One of the edges of the slab bore what may have been a message of Eleanor Dare to her father telling the direction the seven survivors of the Indian massacre took. It says simply:

"Father, we goe S. W."

Dr. Pearce said only six of the names on the stone coresponded to an old list of the colonists made by Governor White. These are the names of the three Dares and of Polle, Smythe and Stoate.

"It may be," Pearce suggested, "that Governor White made errors in his list. Or it is possible that some of the colonists were not in good standing at home and gave assumed names. Then, too, Eleanor Dare used phonetic spelling, increasing the possibilities for discrepancies

"This point is going to be one of considerable discussion among historians."

When you hear a man praising his neighbors its doughnuts to fudge he wants to sell his home.

Twins' Records Same; Both Valedictorians

MILFORD, CONN.—Malcolm Korach and his twin sister, Muriel, were chosen to share valedictorian honors at the graduation exercises at the Milford high school.

The twins were found to have identical records for perfect attendance and achievement and, because of the difficulty of choosing between them, the class established a precedent in picking both for highest honors.

An elder sister was an honor student three years ago.

Special Play For Aged Ladies

Thursday afternoon the program given for the closing exercises of the Stone Ridge School was repeated as a special performance in the Grange Hall for the ladies of the Home for the Aged, Kingston.

Twenty ladies from the home were present to enjoy the show and at the conclusion voted thanks to the school teachers and the ladies of the grange who combined their efforts to put on the program and to transport their guests in autos from the home to the Stone Ridge Hall.

On the way home, the 20 guests were entertained at tea in the Shop in the Garden with the Misses Hasbrouck and Gudenbacher as hostesses.

European Canal

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—The Rhine-Maine-Danube canal will be finished in 1945, Werner Daintz, Foreign Ministry official, reported to the canal company. The Rhine-Nuremberg link will be finished in 1943.

The greatest number of accidental deaths for persons over 25 in 1938 occurred in December.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received and considered by the Town Board of the Town of Shawangunk in the County of Ulster, N. Y., at the Town Clerk's Office, Wallkill, Town of Shawangunk, Ulster County, N. Y., until Thursday, the 6TH DAY OF JULY, 1939, at 4 o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time (5 o'clock P. M., Daylight Saving Time), for the purchase of $45,000 WALLKILL SEWER DISTRICT BONDS of the TOWN OF SHAWANGUNK, dated June 1, 1939, and maturing $1,500 of bonds on June 1st in each of the years 1940 to 1965, inclusive, and $2,000 of bonds on June 1st in each of the years 1966 to 1968, inclusive. The bonds will be of the denomination of $500 each, and will be coupon bonds with privilege of conversion into registered bonds. Both principal of and interest on the bonds will be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at The Wallkill National Bank, Wallkill, N. Y. Interest will be payable semi-annually on June 1st and December 1st.

Bidders are invited to name the rate of interest which the bonds are to bear. The rate named must be a multiple of one-quarter of one per centum or one-tenth of one per centum, must not exceed six per centum, and must be the same for all of the bonds. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder offering the lowest rate of interest without reference to premium, and if two or more bidders offer the same lowest rate of interest, the bonds will be awarded to the one of such bidders offering the highest premium. The bonds will not be sold for less than par and accrued interest.

No bid for less than all of the bond will be considered. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

The bonds are authorized to be issued pursuant to Article 15 of the Town Law of New York for the purpose of paying the cost of constructing a sewer system in the Wallkill Sewer District, established by the Town Board on the 5th day of December, 1938, part of the cost of which is to be financed by a grant from the Public Works Administration. The bonds are payable in the first instance from a levy upon the property in the Sewer District, but if not paid from such levy, the Town is authorized and required by law to levy on all taxable property of the Town such ad valorem taxes as may be necessary to pay the bonds and the interest thereon, without limitation as to rate or amount.

The successful bidder will be furnished with the opinion of Messrs. Reed, Hoyt, Washburn & Clay of New York City, that the bonds are valid and binding obligations of the Town of Shawangunk.

Proposals may be mailed in a sealed envelope marked on the outside "Proposal for Bonds" and addressed to the undersigned Town Clerk, at Wallkill, Ulster County, N. Y. Bidders must deposit with their bids a certified check for $900.00, payable to the order of the Town, to secure the Town against any loss resulting from a failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Purchasers must pay accrued interest from the date of the bonds to the date of delivery. Interest will be allowed upon the amount of the deposit made by the successful bidder.

A detailed report of essential facts will be submitted to any interested bidder. The assessed valuation of the property subject to the taxing power of the Town, is $2,370,807.00; the total bonded debt of the Town, including the bonds described above, is $45,000.00; the population of the Town according to the most recent United States census, is 2127; the bonded debt of the Town does not include the debt of any other subdivision having power to levy taxes upon any or all of the property subject to the taxing power of the Town.

The fiscal year of the Town begins on January 1st in each year. The amounts of taxes levied by the Town for the fiscal years beginning January 1, 1936, January 1, 1937, and January 1, 1938, were respectively $51,164.28, $53,812.76, and $52,099.40; the amounts of such taxes uncollected at the end of the respective fiscal years, were $2,727.77, $2,514.63, and $2,437.81; and the amount of such taxes remaining uncollected as of the date of this notice is $1,302.66. Financial and Commercial

Stocks Were Lower Thursday, Trading Further Restricted

Stocks worked lower yesterday with trading still further restricted, volume being 450,000 shares. Industrials in the Dow-Jones averages showed a loss of 0.73 point, to 136.88; rails declined 0.10, to 27.56 and utilities were down 0.08, to 24.00. Apparently the European and Far Eastern situation still inclines dealers to caution as to commitments. Domestic news was comparatively favorable and the latest administration spending scheme did not seem to have much effect upon the market.

Trading on the London market continued restricted, with the tone generally steady. Amsterdam and Paris were irregular.

Further weakness in grains was a factor in causing the commodity futures index to register a drop for the fourth consecutive day, to a new low for the movement. Wheat closed off ⅜ to 1⅛ cent a bushel in Chicago and corn was as much as 1⅜ cents lower. Lard and cottonseed oil went into new lows for the season. Moderate to fair sized advances were made in cotton, coffee, sugar and cocoa. There was a broad wave of buying in cotton and futures advanced as much as 60 to 80 cents a bale. Wool top futures were up two points on an estimated turnover of 225,000 pounds.

Activity in buying of fall apparel was reported. Some manufacturers state orders for fall suits and top coats are running 30 per cent ahead of this period a year ago.

May net operating income of the first ten railroads to report shows an increase over May last year of 32.7 per cent; gross revenues were up 7.4 per cent. In April Class 1 railroads had a net loss of $27,896,000 after taxes and charges, comparing with a net loss in April 1938 of $33,267,000, according to the AAR. For the first four months of this year total net loss was $71,487,000 vs. $139,004,000 in same period year ago.

Yale & Towne, builders hardware, report better business than a year ago, but with results not up to expectations.

Movie companies as a whole are showing results about on a par with last year. Warner and Paramount are reported well ahead, Loew's is about even and Twentieth Century is off.

Engineering construction awards for the week ended June 22 totaled $40,543,000, 27 per cent below a week ago, but 21 per cent above those for the 1938 week. Total for 1939 to date is $1,515,324,000, an increase of 27.5 per cent over the first 25 weeks of 1938.

Sears Roebuck sales continue to show improvement and total for the four weeks in June was 33.4 per cent above last year.

Brooklyn Union Gas has resumed payments on common after an interval of a year and a half, declaring dividend of 25 cents. Andes Copper Mining, controlled by Anaconda, declared 25 cents on common. Lehigh Portland Cement voted 37½ cents on common. Kalamazoo Stove ordered 12½ cents on common and Continental Insurance declared regular semi-annual of 80 cents.

The House yesterday yielded to farm bloc pressure and agreed to the increase of more than $340,000,000 injected by the Senate into the 1940 agriculture appropriation bill, including provision for parity payments and export subsidies. However, the House refused to increase the farm tenant loan appropriation from $24,984,000 to $49,984,000.

Volume of business last week as measured by Barron's index stood at 71 per cent of normal, a two-point rise from the previous week.

Carloadings last week totaled 637,873, a rise of 3,276.

Sales of American Radiator for the first five months ran ten per cent ahead of the like 1938 period and June has been showing an even better increase. Indications are that results for the year will set a ten-year high.

Major tire manufacturers are reported to be allowing special dealer allowances in addition to regular discounts on certain sizes of low-priced passenger tires.

Seven Acquitted

Mineola, N. Y., June 23 (AP).—Six contractors and a union leader were acquitted in Nassau county court last night of a charge of conspiracy to fix the price of sand and gravel. They were indicted after the contractors twice submitted identical bids of $1.25 per cubic yard for sand.

New York, June 23 (AP).—The stock market regained its footing in many instances today after a slight forenoon stumble.

While the come-back could hardly be called animated, dealings picked up for a while. Gains running to a point or so predominated near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 450,000 shares.

Pointing upward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Great Northern, Spicer Mfg., U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Sperry, American Can, American Radiator, Allied Chemical and Westinghouse.

Business news continued as a sustaining influence, on the whole, brokers thought, but Far Eastern clouds again were seen as a handicap to recovery forces. In addition, the financial district was a bit disappointed that the market response to the administration's latest lending program was so feeble. Passage of the tax revision bill in the Senate was in line with forecasts.

Securities in European centers displayed indefinite trends. Bonds and commodities were narrowly uneven.

Lacking rising power in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, American Cyanamid "B" and Nehi Corp.

Farmer's Account Book Reveals Eye to Thrift

A New England farmer's account book of the 1830s reveals the price of meals and the watch which housewives kept on boarders' appetites. In the autumn of 1834 the charge for the school mistress was a fraction over four cents a meal, room rent apparently included: "To boarding school Mistress 10 days, $1.43;" and "To boarding Mistress one week, $.92." A farm hand's meals cost more than twice as much—from 8¼ to 9½ cents, room rent excluded, each entry stating specifically, "meals of victuals," says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

That housewives kept a sharp eye out for second and third helpings as well as the difference between a woman's and a man's appetite is shown by the varying prices of the farm hand's meals. "To 38 meals of victuals, $3.17" the entries dated August 25, September 1 and October 13 read. But on September 29 the charge was one cent more for one meal less, and on April 27 the rate was all of a cent a meal more: "To 38 meals of victuals, $3.62." It may be deduced that just preceding September 29 and April 27 the farm hand had a more than usually hearty appetite for pancakes and apple pie.

Balance Between Moon and Earth

Earth and moon behave like a gigantic steel yard with the big, heavy earth on the short end of the balance and the little moon on the long end. The earth weighs 81 times as much as the moon and therefore the center balance of the earth and moon lies inside the ball of the earth but by no means at the center of the earth. This center of balance is about a thousand miles beneath your feet, and always keeps under the moon. The remaining 3,000 miles of radius of the earth acts like a lever, whereby the moon, in its motion, is able to shake the whole earth and move it and make it vibrate to every distortation of the moon's orbit.

Why We Keep to Right

The automobile driver in the United States drives on the right side, rather than on the left as is the custom abroad, because the American became accustomed to driving his covered wagon on the right. And the jack he uses in changing tires isn't so new—similar jacks were used 100 years and more ago by covered-wagon drivers. But the American automobile driver owes nothing to the covered wagon when it comes to brakes—the covered-wagon driver had to get out and behind his wagon, setting brakes on the rear wheels from the rear.

Milk Easily Delivered

The milkman at Nome, Alaska, does not worry about spilling his milk. He calls from house to house and delivers a block of frozen reindeer milk or cream equal to a pint or a quart. A white cord frozen into the block of milk serves as a handle to facilitate delivering. The blocks of milk and cream are wrapped in oil paper and look like ice cream. As long as it remains frozen there is no deterioration in the quantity or quality.

Shield Underground Pipes

Shields for underground pipes are being made of cellulose nitrate plastic. Pure rubber is also being used experimentally. The coatings protect the pipe against corrosive soil. Where the line is buried very deep, or across rivers and creeks inaccessible during flood periods, two wraps of celluloid are employed.—Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Half of Wheat Belt Dry Again

Lack of Moisture Indicates Shortage in Grain; Light Winter Crop.

CHICAGO. — Reports of drouth covering a large part of the American wheat belt and extending north into the three western Canadian provinces have been received. It was estimated that over 50 per cent of the total North American wheat acreage is in the dry area.

A large part of the area seeded to wheat west of the 100th meridian was said to be rather urgently in need of additional moisture. There has been steady deterioration in the outlook for winter wheat in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, and estimates on the probable harvest are being revised downward.

The department of agriculture's report suggested 544,000,000 bushels of winter wheat. This is the smallest crop in about 25 years, with the exception of the 1933-35 period, when domestic production dropped below requirements. Last year's crop was a bumper one at 687,000,000 bushels.

Speculators Perk Up.

The combination of a shortage of surface and subsoil moisture in the American Northwest has caused wheat speculators to pay much more attention to weather reports from the latter area than they normally do at this season. While seeding has been completed and there was sufficient moisture to germinate the grain additional moisture must be received in the immediate future in order to prevent rapid deterioration in the outlook. A Chicago expert, after allowing for past weather conditions and normal precipitation to July 1, suggests that the spring wheat crop in the Dakotas may be about 30,000,000 bushels less than in 1938.

The outlook at the present time is for a possible aggregate wheat crop of about 750,000,000 bushels, experts say, or about the same as the average for the 1927-36 period—about 50,000,000 bushels in excess of domestic requirements.

Corn Planting Well Along.

Planting of corn made rapid progress as the result of favorable weather conditions. The critical stage in the growth of the corn crop will come late in July and early in August when it starts to tassel. It is at this time that rain and moderate temperatures are most essential if a large yield is to be secured. The trend of the market is expected to be determined largely by weather conditions during that period.

All deliveries of wheat, oats, and soy beans have sold at new seasonal high prices. The small grains were affected mainly by dry weather reports, and soy beans by a scarcity of the cash article. Despite a record crop of soy beans harvested last year supplies are reported to be unusually light.

Vermont Marks Birthday Of First Morgan Horse

MONTPELIER, VT.—The 150th anniversary of the birth of a horse is being celebrated by Vermont this year.

The horse was Justin Morgan, recognized as foundation stock for the American saddle horse, for the American trotting horse and for the Tennessee walking horse.

When in Springfield, Mass., as a three-year-old colt, the horse was taken by one Justin Morgan, a music teacher, in exchange for an unpaid $25 bill and brought to the latter's new Randolph, Vt., home.

At first the horse was known as Figure, later as Justin Morgan's Figure and finally as Justin Morgan. Evidence proves that he was sired by the thoroughbred True Briton, otherwise known as Beautiful Bay, which was stolen from Colonel De Lancey, the Tory, by three Yankees at King's Bridge, N. Y., during the Revolutionary war. The dam was a daughter of Wild Air, another of the great sires of the day.

Recognizing that the name Morgan has come to mean "beauty, spirit and action to all lovers of the horse, and (that) the Morgan horses for many years held the world's record for trotting horses," the Vermont legislature appointed a special committee to play for the 150th anniversary of the horse's birth.

Earliest Fireplace Of Man Discovered

ROME.—What is believed here to be the earliest known fireplace made by man has been found in a grotto near San Felipe Circeo, on the coast between Rome and Naples.

It is believed to be 130,000 years old and to belong to the final Ice age.

A landslide which occurred thousands of years before Ulysses sailed these waters and encountered the bewitching Circe kept it intact until its discovery by a young Italian archeologist, Prof. A. C. Blanc.

Russians Saving More

Moscow (AP)—Savings banks deposits in Soviet Russia totalled 6,500,000,000 rubles in April. Last year average deposits increased 26 per cent.

More than 700 cities in the United States now operate with civil service provisions for their personnel.

Carmody, Jones Are Nominated

Washington, June 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated John M. Carmody of New York as head of the new Federal Works Agency, and Jesse H. Jones of Texas as head of the Consolidated Federal Loan Agencies.

Carmody is now head of the Rural Electrification Administration while Jones is chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Both appointments would become effective July 1, when the President's two government reorganization orders take effect. The appointments are subject to Senate confirmation.

Carmody, as federal works administrator, would supervise the following consolidated agencies:

The Public Works Administration, now under interior; Works Progress Administration, WPA, now independent; United States Housing Authority, now under interior; bureau of public roads, now under agriculture; public buildings branch of the treasury, and the building management branch of the national park service, now under interior.

Jones, as federal loan administrator, would oversee the activities of these agencies:

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Home Loan Bank Board, Federal Housing Administration, Export-Import Bank, all now independent agencies, and the Electric Home and Farm Authority, now under TVA.

The President has yet to name a head for the third new consolidated unit—the federal security agency.

Goddard Dismisses Counts in Fraud Trial

New York, June 23 (AP)—Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard today dismissed all but the fifth mail fraud count and the conspiracy count against Felipe Buencamino, member of the Philippine National Assembly, and C. Wesley Turner, stock broker, on trial with William O. Buckner, Jr., promoter playboy, and two others.

He also dismissed the seven mail fraud counts in the 8-count indictment as against Capt. John Stuart Hyde, movie producer.

Dismissal of the counts against Buencamino and Turner was made on motion of William Power Maloney, assistant U. S. attorney, after defense counsel had asked for dismissal of the whole indictment.

Buckner, Hyde, Buencamino, Turner and William J. Gillespie are accused of defrauding holders of Philippine railway bonds of more than $1,000,000 through manipulation of money advanced by bondholders to further their interests after the bonds were in default.

Count No. 5 of the indictment referred to a report dated April 5, 1938, sent to the Philippine railway bondholders on the letterhead of the Bondholders Protective Committee of which Buckner was chairman. Counsel for Turner and Buencamino argued the other mail fraud counts referred to correspondence dated before Buencamino and the broker entered the alleged conspiracy.

Flemming Named To Federal Board

in that branch of government including former Commissioner White, now a member of the staff of Northwestern University, Chicago, and former Commissioner Samuel H. Ordway, Jr., prominent member of the New York Bar.

Consists of Three Members

The Federal Civil Service Commission consists of three members appointed by the President, with the consent of the Senate. Not more than two members of the commission can be a member of the same political party. Mr. Flemming's appointment comes as the Republican member of the commission for which he was highly recommended by many friends of Civil Service.

Mr. Flemming is given a leave of absence by his superiors at the American University, where he has been director of the school of public affairs and special executive officer of the university.

Mr. Flemming succeeds Commissioner Ordway, who resigned a short time ago to re-engage in law practice in New York. He was the Republican member of the board for about two years.

In the letter, which accompanied a memorandum of recommendations for further improvement of the service, Mr. Ordway said that in spite of improvements, particularly since 1933, "the job of giving the country an effective civil service system has not been done," but that it could be done in the next year and a half.

"In the last two years," he added, "you have laid the basis—and it was a necessary basis — upon which the system can be made effective. The commission is now in a position to establish a merit system for the first time in history."

Among further needed improvements set forth in the letter were the appointment of several top-notch executive heads of divisions, higher salaries for several administrative heads and a progressive planning technique in the examining division. The recent addition of 600 employes would help the commission greatly when their training was completed.

FDR Would Tax Lending Funds

bank to finance foreign purchases in this country.

Besides the $3,060,000,000 in loans, the program would allow the United States Housing Authority to borrow an extra $800,000,000 to finance housing projects.

The total outlay for the year beginning next July 1 would be $870,000,000.

Senator Byrnes, to whom the program was submitted as a substitute for the House provision earmarking $125,000,000 of WPA funds for more PWA projects, said he doubted whether the new legislation could be tacked on the $1,735,000,000 relief bill because of the "time element." The relief bill must be passed by June 30 when existing WPA funds give out.

Administration supporters generally praised the President's plan on the ground that it would help stimulate private industry at a time when it is greatly needed.

Economy advocates expressed skepticism, however, of the President's contention that the program would not affect the budget. Mr. Roosevelt said the whole plan could be financed through issuance of guaranteed securities by government agencies "with good prospect of repayment of both principal and interest through earnings."

Republicans viewed the proposal as political, and some said they saw in it an opening wedge for a "third term" announcement.
